Tax tribunal junks negative remarks on Cyrus Mistry

In an unprecedented move, the Mumbai bench of the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT) has retracted the critical remarks it made on Cyrus Mistry in its recent order that restored the tax-exempt status of the three key Tata Trusts. In a major moral victory for the former chairman of Tata Group who was unceremoniously sacked on October 24, 2016, the ITAT issued a corrigendum on Wednesday to its December 28 order saying "the critical remarks were due to a typo." P18

Vaccine nod around the corner, dry run across India tomorrow

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH approval for Covid-19 vaccines in India expected anytime now, the Centre on Thursday decided to carry out a dry run of the vaccination drive all over the country on Saturday.

It already completed dry runs in four states — Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Gujarat, Punjab — last Monday and Tuesday and found the outcome satisfactory.

The activity will now happen in all state capitals in at least three session sites, though some states will also include districts that are situated in difficult terrain or have poor logistical support.

However, Maharashtra and Kerala are likely to schedule the dry run in major cities other than their capital.

In each of the three session sites, there will be 25 test beneficiaries (healthcare workers).

The subject expert committee of the Central Drugs Standards Control Organisation on Covid-19, which is in the process of analysing data submitted by the Serum Institute of India and Bharat Biotech for their respective vaccine candidates, is scheduled to meet on Friday after its deliberations on Wednesday remained inconclusive.

The objective of the dry run is to assess operational feasibility in the use of the Co-WIN application in a field environment, to test the linkages between planning and implementation and to identify the challenges and chart the way forward prior to actual implementation, the government said.

Parallelly, the Union Health Ministry released an 88-page communication strategy to support the Covid-19 vaccine rollout in India to disseminate accurate and transparent information and address apprehensions so that the acceptance of the jab is uninterrupted.

Also, five new cases of the highly infectious UK strain of Covid-19 have been detected in India, taking the total number of such patients to 25.

Drill in 5 K'taka districts

Karnataka will conduct vaccination dry runs in five districts, at three session sites per district on January 2, for which Bengaluru (BBMP limits), Kalaburagi, Shivamogga, Mysuru and Belagavi have been chosen. The runs will be held for one full day | P8

Steps initiated to reform the judiciary, including transfer of Andhra CJ, after CM shared his anguish on slanted orders

CJI seeks Jagan affidavit, Ramana response

G S VASU @ New Delhi

CHIEF Justice of India Sharad Arvind Bobde has initiated a slew of steps to deal with the crisis in the judiciary in the wake of an unprecedented letter written by Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy to him on October 6, 2020.

In his letter that was later officially released to the media, the AP chief minister had accused the second seniormost judge of the Supreme Court, Justice N V Ramana, of influencing the roster of the Andhra Pradesh High Court to favour the rival Telugu Desam Party, and the state Chief Justice Jitendra Kumar Maheshwari of bias.

Among the steps taken by CJI Bobde was to shift Chief Justice Maheshwari to Sikkim and his Telangana counterpart R S Chauhan to Uttarakhand apart from transfers and promotions of a few other high court judges in a move that appeared as a routine reshuffle. The shake-up came into effect on Thursday following their gazette notification after President Ram Nath Kovind's assent.

But what was not disclosed then was that the CJI had simultaneously initiated a few other measures, including asking

Jagan Mohan Reddy

Jagan to send his complaint in the form of an affidavit (given under oath). The latter is understood to have complied by sending the same letter he had written to the CJI on October 6 as a signed affidavit.

Parallelly, the CJI sought responses from both Justices Ramana and Maheshwari to the allegations made by Jagan. The letter accused Chief Justice Maheshwari of staying almost every decision taken by the state government under influence from Justice Ramana.

While Chief Justice Maheshwari is said to have sent a voluminous reply to the CJI, details of how Justice Ramana responded are not known.

Before initiating the action on Jagan's letter, CJI Bobde is learnt to have discussed the matter with a few of his colleagues in the Supreme Court. The opinion given, according to sources, was that the charges required 'deeper examination'.

That the CJI viewed the issue with the attention it deserved was evident from the transfer of Chief Justice Maheshwari, while a bench of the SC, in a parallel action, stayed the gag order of the Andhra Pradesh High Court on the media from reporting details of the investigation by the Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) into what has come to be known as the Amaravati land scam. Apart from former advocate general of Andhra Pradesh Dammalapati Srinivas and several others, the family members of Justice Ramana have also been named by the ACB in its FIR on the land scam.

60 pc of gram panchayat seats in BJP fold, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Thursday emphasised that the BJP had done exceedingly well by winning more than 60 per cent of the gram panchayat seats, referring to its reach among the rural voters.

"The people have given importance to the works done by the state and the central BJP governments and have shown their support by voting the candidates supported by the party. The BJP-supported candidates have won in large numbers in around 3,800 of the 5,728 gram panchayats in the state. This is a result of collective leadership and the efforts of our MLAs, district in-charge ministers and party workers," Yediyurappa said at a press conference on Thursday.

He also used the occasion to reiterate that he will continue as CM for the full term and that there was no confusion in the party about a change of leadership.

Yediyurappa pointed out that the party state in-charge Arun Singh had already clarified that he will continue as the CM for the next two-and-half years.

Realtor's plan falls flat, huge booze haul seized

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LOOKING at making easy money selling liquor at a premium for New Year's celebrations after buying it at subsidised rates from defence canteens, a 61-year-old realtor is now cooling his heels behind bars.

The realtor, Mani Urs, was found with 82 litres of liquor in 114 bottles including top whiskey brands when the Basaveshwaranagar police, on a tip-off, raided his residence on West of Cord Road on Thursday morning.

A senior police officer said Urs had procured the liquor in smaller quantities over a period of time and stockpiled it at his residence. According to excise rules, an individual is allowed to stock not more than three litres at home at a given time, but Urs was found with a quantity 27 times the limit. Also, liquor procured from defence canteens is not allowed for resale.

Besides, when the police sought bills of the purchase of liquor from the defence canteen, Urs had none to show as he had procured it through his contacts.

HOW WE WISH

Here's a wishlist of what Bengalureans are hoping for in the New Year

ECOLOGY

A real estate boom that gobbled up trees and lakes, and miles of concrete have turned Bengaluru into a dusty heat island. The government must protect lung spaces. Restoration of Bengaluru's tanks would improve the alarmingly low water table, and the wetlands would help wildlife thrive. As the lockdown brought an urban jungle to a standstill, peafowls and spotted deer ventured into the unusually quiet city, reminding urban folks that humans and animals must co-exist. It's time to go back to the Garden City.

EDUCATION

The pandemic gave us a taste of a world without schools. For lakhs of children in Karntaka's schools, it meant being deprived of both education and nutrition. The midday meal scheme must be resumed. The government must start more English medium schools to make it easier for parents who put their kids in private schools just for the advantage they hope English will give them

HEALTH

While the government has said it plans to overhaul primary health care, it must not forget tertiary care. Experts say a special budget would help in early detection and treatment of diseases such as cancer. They also say 2021 must be the year that telemedicine becomes available to rural and semi-urban areas to provide assistance for cardiac disease, which accounts for around a quarter of deaths

DATA PRIVACY

When the world is increasingly becoming grouped into digital communities, it is shocking that India doesn't yet have data privacy or protection laws. There is also a need for better awareness among the public and law enforcement agencies and better implementation of laws such as the Information Technology Act to prevent and tackle cyber crime.

TRANSPORT

Even though commute times have come down this past year due to the pandemic, Bengaluru urgently needs transport to be commuter-friendly - both in terms of access and affordability. Urban transport must also be committed to reducing air pollution. Expansion of metro services, the introduction of the suburban rail, projects such as the Peripheral Ring Road, pedestrian-friendly, streets are the need of the hour. A cap on private vehicles too would go a long way in improving the air quality in Bengaluru

WHAT TO EXPECT NEXT YEAR

1. The Yelachenahalli-Anjanapura metro line is awaiting formal launch, while Mysuru Road-Kengeri line will likely be flagged off mid-2021. A proposed line from Outer Ring Road to KIA expected to be approved.
2. The Arkavathy Layout project is expected to begin next year, with steps being taken to provide alternative land for those whose land was taken. Construction in Kempegowda Layout expected to begin.
3. After a long wait, the railway station near KIA is expected to open in the first week of January. Shuttle services will take passengers who alight at the station to the airport, which is just 3.4km away.
4. Upgradation of PHCs with high-tech facilities to begin. They are likely to function 24x7. Bed capacity to be increased from 6 to 12-20. There will be 3-4 doctors present.
5. Infrastructure to be ramped up at Jayadeva hospitals in Bengaluru, Mysuru, and Kalaburagi. Beds at Bengaluru hospital to be increased to 1,000 from 700, making it the largest heart care hospital in country.

AT THE CUSP OF NEW DECADE, LET'S CHOOSE TO CHANGE

ASHWIN MAHESH
Social technologist and urbanist. Founder of Mapunity, and the How Institute

2020: The year that never was. Now that we're at the end of it, one wonders what 2021 will be like. More of the same, for some months at least, it appears. That's quite normal. The calendar is a human imposition on the universe, and its endings and beginnings are of no consequence to much that happens in the world. But having invented it, we tend to see our imaginations arranged by it.

The big question for all of us is, will we learn from 2020, or are we likely to simply want to go back to the way things were before the pandemic turned our world upside down? Will we pay more attention to the great problems of the world -- climate change, mindless consumption, conflicts and divisions between people, disempowerment and dictatorships? Or will we treat the retreat of the virus as a sufficient victory to not want anything more than that?

This is a good time to ask that question too, since it's not yet clear how soon we'll be out of the woods. The vaccine may take a while to roll out, perhaps up to a year. And a lot of unexpected twists and turns could occur along the way. Who knew, for instance, that we'd find a rapidly spreading version of the virus in the UK two weeks ago, and that strain would now be in many other countries? More hurdles could be in store.

Humankind's accumulated recklessness of many centuries steers us to ignore our great problems -- poor public health, worsening natural environment, and deep inequalities. We've become accustomed to those, and are only wishful of escaping the consequences. But that's not very different from eating a ton of sweets and hoping not to get a toothache at some point. There's only one way that story ends.

More than a lost year, 2020 could become a lost opportunity to change many things. We've made choices by our acts of commission and omission, and seen their consequences starkly. We must choose again, and very differently. It is not enough to look ahead, unless we're willing to also see the future with very different eyes.

FUTURE PROJECTS

It is a sad commentary on governance in Indian cities that we often wish for the same things each year as we did in previous ones. Bengaluru has no shortage of such long-promised outcomes. The two I really hope to see are the doubling of the BMTC busfleet, and a city-wide network of walkable streets that I proposed under the name Kaaludari two years ago. I fear, however, that we're more likely to build flyovers and underpasses, which have reliably failed to transform the city, despite promises by many governments. If we want outcomes to be different, we must begin to make very different choices.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

01st January: It's the first day of the year today. Or to be precise, it's the first day of the year in the Gregorian calendar, which was devised by the Pope in Rome in the 1500s and spread around the world with the European colonists. In fact, as we know many cultures, especially India, have their own calendars, which are just as valid!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Moon is bringing one cycle to a close and inaugurating a new one. It's therefore a vital moment for considering past failures and successes, and working out how you can do better in the future. You never know - you might actually receive the rewards you have worked for!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You will reconsider the virtues of one particular emotional connection, but now may be the last time to take decisions about the future - at least until next week! At work, impulsive actions could be your downfall, so think first, act later, and take care of essential details.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's time for passion and, if there's no romance at the moment, direct your enthusiasm into other areas. Children will provide a useful focus, but only if you're prepared to let your hair down and let them take the lead. Artistic and creative pursuits also beckon.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Although today's serious Moon reminds you of everything you haven't done at home, it may be too late, so don't feel too guilty! Please, though, resolve to do better next time around! For a start you can sort out the financial implications before you get sucked in too deep.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You may have said or done something that you now regret, but what's said cannot be taken back. It may be a better use of your time to press on with practical tasks at home. If travelling, allow for delays. And if someone is on your mind, get in touch and find out how they are.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The moment has come to exert your independence and authority in the realm of ideas. In other words, say your piece and make sure that others sit up and take notice. Don't be unduly concerned by financial tremors, by the way, for help is at hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The Moon is lively, active and friendly in some senses, serious and sober in others - an indication that you should take the initiative and bring important plans to fruition very quickly. Above all, be sure to leave no loose ends, especially if rivals are waiting to trip you up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Something may happen which is rather confusing, but the answer may lie under your nose. It's all a question of opening your eyes and looking in a different direction. Also, you may realise that you have a great deal more emotional power than you imagine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You should turn your attention to social issues, perhaps reviving plans for a party or gathering of some sort. At work you must set great store by team-work, but also begin to look at the larger picture, seeing the wood for the trees - just for a change!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
For some time now you have suspected that if other people aren't actually undermining you, they're not giving you the support you deserve. This may be because you over-estimated what could actually be achieved. It might also be up to you to set a better example!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may have been coasting along, imagining that you have all the time in the world to achieve a cherished ambition. You might be very, very wrong, and if you don't swing into gear now, you could miss a vital chance in about twelve weeks' time. And that would never do.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The first message from today's stars is to be business like. The second is to be adventurous. It's an excellent moment to set off on a new course, one which may eventually involve overseas connections. But if you're going on a journey, it might be a voyage of the spirit.

RESTORE THE RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

NIRANJANARADHYA V P
Senior Fellow and Development Educationist
CCL-NLSIU

Covid created an unprecedented crisis in the state. The education sector in general and school education in particular was completely disrupted since mid-March 2020. It is almost a year since children were pushed to distress and deprived of their fundamental entitlements. It includes the right to education, right to food, right to protection, etc. as assured in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, Indian Constitution and other related laws pertaining to child rights.

The state took a series of measures to mitigate the problem. But schools continue to remain shut despite demands from the School Development and Monitoring Committees, parents' associations and civil society to reopen them at the earliest. We are now entering 2021 with many challenges to resolve in the education sector.

First, all schools from Anganawadis to Class 12 should be reopened without any delay. Several studies have suggested that children have a number of characteristics that protect them against SARS-CoV-2. Given the advantage, there should not be any attempt to create fear among children and parents in the name of pandemic or second wave. The government should educate parents, children, teachers and the community about the nature of the infection and its treatment to build confidence.

The biggest deprival for children, especially in rural schools during the pandemic, was hot midday meals and other supplementary nutrients like hot milk and immunity-boosting vitamin capsules. In all, 55,97,365 children were deprived of their fundamental right to nutrition. As per the National Family Health Survey 2019-20, the percentage of children who are anaemic in the age of 6 to 59 months is 62.8. The percentage of children under five years who are stunted is 32.2. This is a horrifying situation.

Therefore, protecting the right of children to adequate nutrition as per the National Food Security Act 2013 should top the list of priorities. The government should restart the hot midday meal programme at the earliest.

Second, protecting children from all forms of exploitation is the primary obligation of the state. The closure of schools for a long period led to a widespread increase in child labour, child bonded labour, child marriage, child trafficking, etc. in rural as well as urban areas. But it was severe in rural parts. This is a gross violation of legislation meant for the protection of children. It is important to prepare a blueprint to bring back all children below 14 years who are out of school.

Third, all children have the fundamental right to education under Article 21A of the Constitution. The RTE Act, 2009 is in place to realise the fundamental right of children to equitable, quality education. The State Government should ensure at least 150 learning days starting from January to June 30, 2021 to ensure class-wise, subject-wise learning competencies from Classes 1 to 9 as indicated in the RTE Rules 2010. A special plan for those appearing for board exams need to be put in place right from day one, starting from January 1 till June 2021 to ensure justice to these children. Examinations can be conducted during the first and second week of July to give adequate time for children to prepare for the board exams.

Finally, the state, as a duty bearer, has the primary obligation of protecting and promoting the fundamental rights of all children during all times, including the crisis period. We are just coming out of an unprecedented crisis created by the pandemic and entering 2021. The department should envisage all possibilities and opportunities to restore the fundamental rights of all children. The current crisis may not completely blow over soon. Therefore, we need to develop innovative approaches to restore the rights universally to create a flexible, equitable and resilient school system.

Large turnout expected in schools today

Preparations under way to welcome students back to school in Bengaluru on Thursday | MEGHANA SASTRY

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA@Bengaluru

THE government has received requests to reopen schools for grades other than Class 10 and 12, but a decision on this will be taken based on feedback from classes that will reopen on Friday, Primary and Secondary Education Minister Suresh Kumar said on Thursday.

Meanwhile, schools are finding ways to deal with the micromanagement that comes with a new set of rules. State board schools are trying to crunch the entire syllabus into the 120-plus days of classes they are expected to hold before Board exams. Teachers are excited to have students back, said members of the teaching community, especially as online classes have been ineffective.

President of Karnataka State High School Association, H K Manjunath told TNIE that 70% attendance is expected, after parents of aided and government schools expressed a positive attitude.

Thimmaiah Purle, President of the Karnataka State Pre-university College Lecturers' Association, said teachers had faced similar protocol during II PUC examination. Accommodating all students in different batches will be a challenge, Purle said, as several schools have an average of 300 students in a II PUC classroom. Mansoor Ali Khan, general secretary, Managements of Independent CBSE Schools Association said consent was sought from parents and 35% are okay with children coming to school. Shashi Kumar, General Secretary, Associated Managements of Primary and Secondary Schools said teachers were hesitant to get tested for fear of contracting the virus.

Bus pass

BMTC has permitted SSLC and II PUC students to travel to schools and colleges using their previous student bus pass and current year fee receipt or ID in ordinary service buses. Students can apply for new passes online (BMTC or Seva Sindhu portal) and collect passes from Bangalore One centres.

Infosys and Wipro announced billion-dollar deal clinches last week
Top sector analysts have placed their bets on IT majors and the industry's mid-cap firms
2020 YEAR TO REMEMBER FORGET

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

INDIA'S IT services industry is expected to double down on its digital revenues in 2021 due to a massive demand from the enterprises for services, including cloud, cybersecurity and remote work. Although the top players in the $191 billion tech industry may have missed their margins and revenue targets for FY21, the disruption due to Covid lasted only the first quarter (April-June, 2020) and a majority of the firms were right back on the track from the second quarter which saw the highest sequential revenue hike.

Besides, companies like Infosys and HCL Tech have increased their revenue and margin guidance for the remaining part of the fiscal year anticipating quicker recovery in business on the back of strong demand in digital services. The sector has not only shown resilience during a crisis like Covid, but has also kept the essential services running with their deep tech innovations and platforms.

Top analysts have placed their bets on IT majors as well as the industry's mid-cap firms for the next year, with more demand in key segments and a change in administration in the US, with a likelihood of a relaxed H-1B visa regime in place.

However, the top tech CEOs have also sounded an alarm over the rising cases of mutant Coronavirus in key client geographies of the US and UK, which may be a headwind for the revenues. Both Infosys and Wipro announced billion-dollar deal clinches last week from Germany's major firms – multi-year contracts which will also involve upskilling of thousands of employees. Salil Parekh, CEO, Infosys, said the IT transformation wave initiated by Covid will continue to drive the business of service providers, however, caution is needed because of the situation in the UK and US.

Currently, with over 95 per cent of employees in the IT services sector still working from home, the top tech CEOs have said that the productivity has still remained top-notch which has led to increased confidence among the clients. The IT sector has also been one of the few industries which announced salary hikes/promotion cycles from October onwards and has onboarded thousands of freshers remotely, while stressing on an increased employee engagement. The attrition rates for top tech four firms have fallen year-on-year in Q2, FY21, and upskilling of the employees has also been a key focus area.

The cash-rich firms are eyeing acquisitions of smaller companies in niche verticals to strengthen their businesses at a time when the valuations of the companies have dropped drastically. TCS earlier this month announced that it will acquire 100 per cent shares of Deutsche Bank's IT unit, PostBank Systems AG, for an undisclosed sum. This was almost akin to the company's acquisition of Citibank's Business Process Outsourcing unit during the global financial crisis of 2008-09. Peers like Infosys and Wipro have also acquired smaller firms in health-tech and cloud spaces.

Startups to see renewed interest from investors

Startups was one of the worst-hit sectors by Covid and later the Chinese fund block, but many companies which were able to bag big investments in 2020 are eyeing to go public next year and list on stock exchanges in India. The list includes unicorns like Flipkart, Zomato, Zerodha, Nykaa, PolicyBazaar among several others.

Despite the hurdle in Chinese investments, the funding from countries like the UK, US and Middle-East is expected to spur the startups, which have deep tech solutions and can expand globally. Investors are likely to lay their bets on sectors like edtech, e-commerce, software as a service and health tech spaces, although the vaccine development also presents tailwinds for sectors like hospitality and travel.

2020, as per the research firm, Traxcn, saw $11.4 billion investments in startups with a cumulative 1,152 funding rounds and the birth of 12 unicorns. The Traxcn report suggested that the decade has seen an 8x growth from a tiny $1.4 billion in 2011 to more than $11.4 billion in 2020 in terms of the total funding raised by the startups. Some of the biggest cheques of the year were written for startups like PhonePe ($700 million), Byjus ($800 million), Zomato ($660 million) and FirstCry ($300 million). The top markets were online test preparation, food delivery, e-gaming, digital wallets and content platforms.

LOOKING AHEAD

Outlook for Indian IT services market seems bright

Pareekh Jain
Founder and lead analyst of EllRTrend, an outsourcing research and advisory

Even if the overall market might not increase, it looks like the share of India and Indian service providers will increase, and this is good news for the whole IT ecosystem

At the beginning of the pandemic, it was feared that for the first time ever, the Indian IT industry might show negative yearly growth. Even in the 2001 and 2008 crises, the Indian IT industry showed positive growth. But now, things are looking better, especially for major service providers. Though there is still a small chance that at aggregate, the Indian IT industry might show a decline in FY 21, the outlook for 2021 and FY 22 seems bright, even brighter than what we could have predicted a couple of years ago. There are four major reasons for this optimism.

The first reason is that clients are comfortable working virtually now, and their appetite for offshoring work is increasing. In IT services, there is no other country in the world that offers quality talent at such a large scale and at cost-effective price points as India does.

The second reason is that every business needs to invest more in virtualisation and digitalisation to adopt to virtual way of working. It may mean more work in the digital, cloud, and cybersecurity areas.

The third reason is the cost takeout by enterprises as they are facing unprecedented challenges in their businesses, and they need to reduce the cost of their operations. In large cost takeout programmes, everything is on the table from vendor consolidation, captive consolidation, location consolidation to service consolidation. It may mean work going to other vendors, and internal teams, including captives, coming to service providers.

The fourth reason is the M&A (merger and acquisition)-driven consolidation. Enterprises are doing M&As to increase their competitiveness in their industry, and it will demand the restructuring and consolidation of IT functions as well.

The IT industry is transforming from a sunrise sector to a mature sector. In mature sectors, a few large players, along with some niche players, survive. I think 2021 will be the year where a few prominent service providers will grow faster and increase their share in this mature market. So, even if the overall market might not increase, it looks like the share of India and Indian service providers will increase, and this is good news for the whole IT ecosystem.

The nightmare: Some lessons and hope

MANJU P PILLAI

The pandemic had an adverse impact on various sectors, including aviation, travelling and hospitality | EXPRESS

Annus horribilis. The year 2020 cannot be described in any other way! And even after the pandemic recedes, the scars will linger and fearful shadows will lurk. Nothing can be the same again for us who have survived this bleakest patch of history.

The economy has been pulverized. Going into freefall, it has been confronted with huge declines in revenues, unemployment, disrupted supply chains, declining demand, fall in investor sentiments -- every economic nightmare came true. Amidst the need to survive physically, was the need to survive economically.

With The GDP truncated, our growth figures were subjected to unimaginable contractions. Falling like ninepins was every growth indicator. Early in the year we were extinguishing economic fires but were hopeful. By mid-year, our optimism was waning.

The most stringent lockdown brought in unforeseen effects. We witnessed a migration of unprecedented proportions. Our growth models which only thinly factor the large sector of unorganized labour were left with their entrails showing, exposing our fragile social security safety nets.

The decline in demand stymied growth in the manufacturing sector, particularly the MSMEs whose very survival depended on liquidity. Sectors like Aviation, Travel and Tourism, Hospitality which hire around 9.5 crore people in direct and indirect employment, were stressed and contributed to the contraction. The services sector which contributes substantially to the GDP went into a tailspin and will make recovery slower.

Timely relief measures did manage to stem the fall. Social security packages and the Emergency Loan Guarantee Scheme, a part of the Atma Nirbhar Bharat package, infused liquidity. The fiscal stimulus packages provided some succour to the very distressed. Sceptics may say it was not enough, but in a country as diverse as ours, these measures made the difference.

It is hard to find silver linings in such a dismal scenario. But with a good monsoon, agriculture managed a 3.4% growth and the manufacturing sector, against all expectations, registered a 0.6% growth. These small mercies will go a long way in our path to recovery.

There is another light at the end of this tunnel. There seems to be a paradigm shift in the way we are defining economic growth. Already we are talking about circular economies, refurbishing, reshaping, recycling. Perhaps we may be looking at new indices that include the poor in a more meaningful way, because our symbiotic need for one another makes for collective survival.

We are currently preoccupied with predicting how the economy will recover using every letter of the Alphabet. Will it be a V, U, W or K-shaped recovery? While we are it, the year 2020 has taught us lessons. One of them is how to redefine the way we measure poverty and prosperity and more importantly , collective well being.

A YEAR OF GREAT REVELATIONS, DISTRESS AND ANGUISH

Prof N Manu Chakravarthy
Author

To reflect on the year just gone by is certainly to come to terms with those intense experiences that, both at the conscious and unconscious levels, broke comfortably settled perspectives and stable notions in relation to oneself and the world around. There are, indeed, several images that emerge from certain phases of the year and continue to haunt and trouble one's conscience, challenging the very notion of an ethical life, constructed by a secure and complacent middle class to place itself on a pedestal. These images dissolve all kinds of certainties, apart from ripping into shreds platitudes uttered about the fundamental values of justice and equality. They also expose the hollowness of our institutions -- the Judiciary and Executive in particular – in addition to revealing the vacuity of our social and cultural life.

One of the most distressing images is of young girls carrying loads on their heads, journeying from one territory of misery and agony to another of suffering and impoverishment, or stretching out their hands to receive some rare charity. These are to be seen with images of thousands of migrant workers, deprived of jobs and displaced in every sense, walking all over the land, choosing to face the wrath of the coronavirus than endure the callous and indifferent attitude of the political State and an apathetic middle-class society of pathetic puppets. This society, from its insulated places of dwelling, displayed its extraordinary concern for human welfare by clanging plates, ringing bells, blowing conches and lighting lamps, all in due obedience to instructions given, making a mockery of human suffering.

This was a spectacle that ridiculed the pain and sanity of several individuals who struggled to do whatever they possibly could to help the unfortunate, abandoned by the centres of power and authority. What caused greater anguish was the sweeping declaration of judges of the Supreme Court that it was not their business to keep track of the movement of migrants, while all they had to do was instruct the governments to discharge their basic obligation.

For sensitive people, many of them from the heterogeneous middle class, it was an erasure of democratic values guaranteed by the Constitution. It was appalling that decisions were taken in a unilateral manner by a single individual, liquidating all political diversities and wiping out a decentralised democratic system.

In retrospect, it becomes clear that it was a phase that engendered anguish in individuals who believed that sanity and wisdom during a crisis could be generated only through open debate and mutual consultation. A deep spiritual crisis engulfed those souls that genuinely believed in a vision of cosmological harmony. This land has always nourished the value of diverse spiritual and religious traditions going beyond a hegemonic, singular religious identity.

There are millions in this country who uphold spiritual practices that transcend narrow and utterly myopic narratives that legitimise only a homogeneous religious order. It was absolutely devastating to be bombarded with images of the devout at a mosque in a state of trance, swaying and sneezing to let the virus spread, and images of Muslim vendors spitting on fruits and vegetables to infect Hindus -- all done to generate widespread opinion that the virus was being spread by one community.

The atrociously surreal images came from rabid communal forces and were freely and crudely disseminated over social media. None can ignore a kind of corporate consciousness promoting such divisive schemes. A systematic propaganda was launched, especially referring to the Tablighi Jamaat convention, hiding certain facts that could have indicted the Home ministry. None of these forces ever acknowledged that there was a massive congregation at the Tirumala temple at Tirupati in June and July. Such deliberately distorted images struck a devastating blow at the very core of a sane society, wiping out sincere efforts of a liberal and emancipated community to protect communal harmony.

Even as one contemplates the utter chaos and anxiety of the miserable year that 2020 was, there are contrasting images of schoolteachers, Anganwadi and health workers risking everything to help society handle the crisis. It leads one to think of contributing whatever is in one's range of possibility. What further strengthens this sacred impulse is the dignity and strength with which unfortunate young children, women and old people, especially from the marginalised sections of society, struggled to survive. It is deeply humbling to be a part of that humanity, far removed from the comfort zones of middle-class societies, which showed how merciless Fate had to be confronted. There were many great revelations for artistes, thinkers and activists. It was the will of the so-called common people that produced such revelations.

TOWARDS A ROSY FUTURE OF HEALTH

Strengthen PHCs, push use of generic drugs, integrate various systems with AYUSH

DR VISHAL RAO
Member of independent think tank Covid-19 Consultative Group, and Head & Neck Oncologist at HCG hospitals

HEALTHCARE is inherently holistic unlike medical care. To make the National Health Policy effective and purposeful, to help build a healthy society with less illness and less hospitals, I suggest the following action points that call for immediate enforcement.

We should develop our own system for protecting families from financial ruin of medical treatment and care. We must eliminate the out-of-pocket model practised in India, which is a big burden on the citizens of this country, unlike the highly efficient healthcare models practised in industrialised nations.

We must adopt a 'Health in all policies' approach. The strict enforcement of our national law on tobacco control, the Cigarettes and Other Tobacco Products Act (COTPA), across the state is a good example of multi-sectoral approach towards law enforcement.

We should perform a Health Impact Assessment (HIA) to evaluate the effect of policies, plans and projects on health in diverse economic sectors. For instance, traffic injuries, air and noise pollution can be reduced through "healthy transport policies".

We must strengthen the primary healthcare centres (PHCs) by addressing the shortage of qualified and competent professionals in the healthcare delivery system, especially in rural India.

We should incept an exclusive institute responsible for healthcare quality to ensure adherence to safe medical practices and seamless coordination across government agencies.

We should aim at aggressively promoting the use of generic drugs and direct generic drug manufacturers to strictly comply with good manufacturing practice guidelines.

The authorities should look at integrating various systems of medicine with AYUSH and complementary medicine to develop holistic and integrated schools of medicine.

We must promote innovations with a "create in India" mission such as BIRAC model which looks beyond imports from China.

We should create a healthcare system covering all individuals across the length and breadth of the country, from cradle to grave. This will make preventive care attractive to heathcare providers from an investment perspective.

MEDICAL INFRA

A YEAR TO PUT LESSONS OF 2020 INTO PRACTICE

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

THE pandemic, while holding up a mirror to the shortfalls of the health sector, has also been a catalyst for change. And that's the good news. Though it's convenient and tempting to assume that 2021 is a brand new year and the chaos of 2020 will be forgotten, that's not what the year taught us. If it has taught us anything, it is to expect the unexpected. But again, it is also true that we feel more in control, despite a certain level of chaos, and will not fall into pre-pandemic patterns.

The first hope for the country is that doses of the Covid-19 vaccine will soon be rolling out, with domain experts, doctors and ministers putting in extra efforts to ensure that vaccines will be widely available ahead of schedule and also bring down vaccine hesitancy. This definitely needs calm, clear and trustworthy health communication, claim experts.

Karnataka Health Minister K Sudhakar has announced that this year's health budget will be a revolutionary one, but what is important, according to doctors and public health experts working in rural areas, is not to just set up more medical colleges in every district but to ensure that the existing ones are well-equipped with trained doctors, nurses and technicians. For instance, the State has an abysmally low number of ICUs, capable doctors in ICUs and epidemiologists.

The minister said that Public Health Centres will be upgraded with high-tech facilities and will function 24/7. Interestingly, a State Health Registry is planned to be set up, and will be a comprehensive repository of public heath data which aids evidence-based policy making. The new Arogya Soudha will facilitate better integration and coordination within the health department by bringing 53 offices under one roof.

Cardiologists have suggested ramping up of basic infrastructure in institutes like Jayadeva in Bengaluru, Mysuru and Kalaburagi, which is again a very important move. Experts believe that the number of beds in such hospitals need to be increased from 700 to 1,000 as there is a tremendous increase in the number of cardiology-related cases, especially in the young population. Telemedicine in semi-urban and rural areas can provide timely assistance on many diseases, and even reduce mortality rate.

The year 2020 also showed that there is enough scope for research in our state and country -- not just on Covid-19 related issues but also biopharma and biotech innovations.

However, the year has also taught us to look within ourselves. There has been several reasons for the health department to focus on mental health and ensure that every individual has access to mental health. Let's say cheers to 2021 with goblets of good health!

Farm tech is the way ahead to boost output

ADOPTION of new farming technologies by our farmers is relatively inadequate compared to China, which produces three times the output that India does, though the holding size is 44% less than India's.

This is because of lack of extension efforts at the village level. Extension workers in the train-and-visit system contributed significantly to the Green Revolution in the late 1960s and early 1970s. Now, farmers resort to sending pictures of pests and diseases on crops through WhatsApp, to seek solutions from scientists of agricultural universities and Krishi Vigyan Kendras. While mobile technology can complement the efforts of extension, it cannot substitute for village-level workers. While restructuring, this point needs to be considered.

M MAHADEVAPPA
Former Vice-Chancellor, University of Agricultural Sciences

Despite Covid-19, there was a 3 per cent increase in agriculture production in Karnataka, as farmers and Covid-affected migrant labour devoted considerable time and attention to their crops.

However, the livestock sector, especially poultry, was affected due to fall in demand for meat, resulting in decreased demand for maize. Although the minimum sale price (MSP) for maize was fixed at Rs 1,850 per quintal, farmers received not more than Rs 1,200 per quintal. This is a classic case wherein though MSP was much above market price, the price realised was 35 per cent lower than the MSP.

Therefore, it is crucial to recognize that MSP alone or even with procurement, market price may not be higher if supply is more than demand. So farmers need to be educated on the appropriate crop pattern and area allocation for security in agriculture.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has taken a very progressive step to introduce agriculture subjects from the primary education level.

There is also a dire need to clear pending cases such as permitting of GM crops like 'Golden Rice' to overcome Vitamin A deficiency in children and nursing women, hybrid mustard, clearing the moratorium on Bt brinjal and allowing field trials of GM varieties in many other crops, as they have been approved by competent and expert committees. It is equally important to prevent or avoid pseudo agricultural experts interfering by promoting their own non-scientific methods of production.

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

IN December 2019, they were busy monitoring the mounting anti-Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) and National Register of Citizens (NRC) protests by thousands of students. The police were under severe criticism for being heavy handed to silence the voice of dissent.

And then, suddenly from March onwards, their roles changed -- from lathi-wielding cops to going beyond the call of duty. From implementing the lockdown and ensuring seamless supply of essential services, primarily food to people who would have otherwise starved in the pandemic-lockdown, to contact tracing of primary and secondary contacts to spreading the caution on Covid-19 and maintaining law and order.

The duty roster had changed for the constables and they were being assigned duties on phones and WhatsApp at short notices.

In May came the responsibility of managing the migrant workers, who would gather at public places in thousands wanting to go home by train, bus or by walk. The police had to control the crowd, assuage their fears and ensure that they would be sent back home safely. Those were difficult days because back home the cops faced their anxious families who were scared that the khaki would bring the virus home. There were children and elderly, who depended on that one income.

It was doubly difficult for women cops, who were accused of being insensitive towards their children and families. The call of duty became tougher for the younger lot too at the peak of the pandemic. They couldn't immediately go home after their Covid duty and had to be quarantined. The police top brass with government support set up exclusive testing and quarantine centres for their workforce. Senior officers went around the police colonies to assure the families that they were being taken care of.

Along with the Covid duties, they had to carry out the core functions. New standard operating procedures (SOPs) were issued. The police stations put up tents for the visitors and complainants to maintain social distance. Executing an arrest was also a risk for the cops because of the fear of contracting the virus. Soon after arrest the accused started being tested for Covid-19. The prisons were instructed to set up quarantine centres for the new inmates and were allowed inside the prison only after a negative report.

In the wake of the pandemic, the Supreme Court in March had directed the states and Union Territories to decongest the prisons to contain the spread of the virus. The pathos was around those prisoners, who had turned down their release offers. Prisons were a source of food and shelter from a ravaging pandemic. Freedom could wait.

By November, 11 per cent of the over 80,000 police personnel in Karnataka had tested positive and 87 had lost their lives. The State government kept its word and paid an ex-gratia amount of Rs 30 lakh to each of those, who had made the supreme sacrifice in the line of duty. The new virus strain will only put the cops under more strain.

Hemant M Nimbalkar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a major reshuffle to the police department, the state government transferred several IPS officers, including IGPs D Roopa and Hemant M Nimbalkar, who had locked horns over the tender process of Bengaluru Safe City Project.

Roopa, who was Secretary to Government (PCAS), Home Department, has been posted as Managing Director, Karnataka State Handicrafts Development Corporation Ltd, while Nimbalkar, who was Additional Commissioner of Police (Administration), Bengaluru City, has been transferred to the Internal Security Division (ISD).

The two officers had openly made allegations against each other recently and it had embarrassed the government. It is learnt that the government transferred both as a 'punishment'. The government has upgraded the Home Secretary's post and has replaced Roopa with Malini Krishnamoorthy, who was ADGP, Grievances & Human Rights.

Vaccination dry run in districts, taluks, PHCs

Exercise will be carried out in five districts for one day on Jan 2

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru/Kalaburagi

KARNATAKA will conduct vaccination dry runs at three sites each in five districts — Bengaluru (BBMP limits), Kalaburagi, Shivamogga, Mysuru and Belagavi — on January 2.

Dr Rajani Nageshrao, Deputy Director, Immunisation, Department of Health and Family Welfare, said, "The dry run will be held in five districts for a full day at the district hospital, taluk hospital and primary health centre levels." Everything that is needed to conduct Covid-19 vaccination, excluding the vaccine itself and the vaccination procedure, will be part of the dry run in the state, she said. The aim of the exercise is to understand how the actual vaccination and all related events must take place in accordance with set procedures.

"Three rooms, waiting area, syringes, people to be vaccinated (health care workers), vaccinators who will administer the vaccine, AEFI (adverse event following immunization) kit — which is generally kept during all immunisation programmes — and observation room will be kept ready. The orientation will take place on Friday," Dr Rajani added.

The health care workers, who are beneficiaries, will receive a message asking them to come for the vaccination along with their ID proof. Their names will be recorded in the computer, a person deputed for mock vaccination will carry out mock procedure of vaccination and the person who has been 'vaccinated' will be made to sit in the observation room for half an hour. The procedures will be similar to those which will be followed at the time of actual vaccination. A dummy app has also been made ready for this purpose.

In Kalaburagi, the dry run will be taken up in Ashoknagar Urban PHC, Aurad Rural PHC and Jewargi Taluk hospital, sources said. After the dry run is over, the challenges and difficulties faced, especially at the PHC level, will be highlighted, corrected and feedback shared with the Central Government. The challenges that crop up are expected to hold good for the whole state.

Another dry run is not planned yet. Around 75-100 vaccinators and 375 beneficiaries are expected to be part of the dry run in Karnataka.

The Health department, in a press release, stated that the dry run will be an exercise for end-to end-testing of Covid vaccination process, except the actual vaccination, and will include planning, preparation including pre-requisites for vaccine introduction as per the operational guidelines and use of CoWIN portal, uploading beneficiary and session site details, verification of documents at session sites, mock drill of beneficiary vaccination and reporting.

Some of the primary objectives include assessing the operational feasibility of using Co-WIN application in field environment and to test linkages between planning implementation and reporting mechanisms.

All contacts of 7 with UK virus strain test negative, says govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ALL 72 contacts of 7 UK returnees in Karnataka who had contracted the UK strain of SARS-CoV-2 have tested negative for Covid-19.

Of the 72 contacts, 20 are primary contacts and the rest are secondary contacts, said Dr V Ravi, retired professor of neurovirology at NIMHANS and nodal officer for genetic confirmation of SARS-CoV-2.

Addressing the media on Thursday, Dr Ravi said all of them had tested negative on an RT-PCR test. However, he cautioned, that "a negative test did not mean that one could derive the conclusion that the UK strain had lower transmission. Studies show that it has high transmission. However, the government's intervention has helped in preventing spread of the virus. The contacts were immediately traced and isolated and this helped in many people testing negative."

While much is not known about the new UK variant, chances of people who have already recovered from Covid-19 being reinfected with this strain are lower than 5%, Dr Ravi said.

He said that the vaccines would be effective against the new strain. "Currently, some companies are modifying their vaccines for the UK strain. However, the available vaccines will be effective on the UK variant. Those who get vaccinated will be safe from Covid for one or two years. However, genomic sequencing must be done on a regular basis. This is essential to monitor and detect the emergence of new variants," he said.

He said that a second wave could be expected to occur around six months after the first wave. "But we will still need to follow Covid norms, to avoid getting infected. The transmission of the UK variant will also slow down if we follow such practises...," Dr Ravi said.

24 untraceable UK returnees found in Karnataka

Twenty-four of the 199 UK returnees who could not be traced by state's Covid machinery, were found by the Home Department, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said on Thursday. The rest will be found by the end of the day. "Nearly 80 of the people who came to India from the UK are not Indian citizens, so we had trouble tracking them. Thirty UK returnees and four of their contacts have tested positive so far, of which only seven have the UK strain. They are isolated in hospital and are stable without any serious issues," he said. He said the government would not seal any more apartments as had been done during the lockdown when positive cases were found.

Realtor's friends got him liquor

WITH the Covid-19-related restrictions in view of the new UK strain of the SARS-CoV-2 virus, he had anticipated that imposition of prohibitory orders under Section 144 of the Criminal Procedures Codes (CrPC) could lead to liquor shortage, especially for New Year's celebrations. Urs then decided to procure liquor and store it at his residence and sell it at a premium.

The police said he relied on a network of friends who had access to defence canteens across the city to procure the liquor.

However, his plans went for a toss as the imposition of prohibitory orders did not work as he had anticipated. Liquor stores remained open and many across the city continued to sell it at the maximum retail price.

25-year-old man hacked to death

ENS @Bengaluru

A 25-year-old man was hacked to death by two bike-borne men at KG Halli on Wednesday night. Police are considering the probability of an old rivalry. The deceased is Sultan Pasha, a mechanic by profession and resident of Ram Tent Road. Police said the incident took place at 9.30 pm when Pasha, with his friend, was standing in front of a chicken stall.

Two men approached them on a bike on the pretext of asking for an address. As they came close, one of them attacked him with weapons and fled the scene.

His friend called for help and passersby rushed him to a private hospital where he was declared brought dead.

Kerala passes resolution against 'anti-farmer' laws

BJP MLA springs a surprise by supporting CM Pinarayi's resolution

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

THE Kerala assembly on Thursday unanimously passed a resolution against the controversial farm laws. It urged the Union government to annul The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act 2020, Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act 2020, and Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act 2020.

"If laws evoke concerns and doubts among the affected population, the Houses have the responsibility to view them seriously," said the resolution moved by Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

BJP's lone member O Rajagopal sprang a surprise by supporting the resolution. While participating in the discussion, the Nemom MLA said he welcomed discussion on the new laws but had reservations on certain references in the resolution. The Opposition UDF's demand to condemn the "prime minister's reluctance to hold consultation with farmers' organisations" was defeated in a voting. The CM said it was unnecessary since the wording "central government" serves the same purpose. The resolution said the three laws were passed at a time when the agriculture sector is facing a big crisis.

Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan moves the resolution against farm laws at the Assembly on Thursday | EXPRESS

"Farmers are apprehensive that they would even lose the minimum support price for cereals. The serious issue is that farmers will not have a bargaining power with corporates. Also, the laws do not ensure protection to farmers. Farmers lack the capability to conduct legal battles against corporates," the resolution said.

It noted that the issue is of urgent nature to Kerala if the agitation continues. "Kerala is a consumer state. It will be pushed to poverty if the supply of food grains from other states comes to a standstill. The state will not be able to face this consequence, especially during the Covid spread," it said.

The resolution said the ideal system was one in which the government procures food grains at just prices and distributes among the needy. Instead, through the new laws, the central government offers the corporates an opportunity to hijack the trade of agricultural produce.

Siddu challenges govt to dissolve Assembly

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

LEADER of the opposition Siddaramaiah has challenged the BJP government to dissolve the assembly and face elections.

Reacting to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's claims that the BJP-supported candidates had won more than 60 per cent of the Gram Panchayat seats and the BJP had won several elections after his government came to power, Siddaramaiah told reporters that the people of the state were not with the present government. "They (BJP) have only looted money. Let them dissolve the assembly and face elections. Congress will win the polls, get the majority and form the government even if the elections are held tomorrow," he said. Yediyurappa is daydreaming and is making such claims, he said.

"Being a CM, how can he make such irresponsible statements when candidates do not contest Gram Panchayat polls on any party symbol, and that too when the counting is not yet complete? They had no candidates in the villages and they have pulled many of our workers. According to my information, candidates backed by the Congress have won the majority of the seats, but I don't want to make such claims."

Attacking the government, he said, "There is no coordination in the government and ministers are giving different statements. In the recent fight between two senior IPS officers, the government has not issued any statement. I demand a thorough probe into the matter. Also, the government has failed to contain the spread of the new virus strain. How can they say that travellers from the UK have gone missing? It shows their inefficiency."

ROAD WORKS WILL BE OVER IN A YEAR: CM

Bengaluru: Fed up with dusty and dug-up roads and blocked footpaths due to civic works across the city, a number of city's resident welfare associations (RWAs) have take up the matter with civic agencies to ensure that the roads are repaired. Following this, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa has promised that the pending works will be completed about nine months to one year's time.

No party can claim win in Gram Panchayat polls: SEC

After the results of the gram panchayat polls were announced, CM B S Yediyurappa claimed that the BJP had bagged 3,800 of the total of 5,728 gram panchayats, accounting for 60%. Party state president Nalin Kumar Kateel too claimed victory.

Not to be outdone, the Congress was also quick to claim a win. Former CM and opposition leader Siddaramaiah said, "It is the Congress workers who are in majority in the gram panchayat elections."

However, former CM and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy was more cautious. "Despite the national parties using money and muscle power, candidates supported by JDS have done significantly well," he said.

The SEC said both BJP and Congress claimed that the final election results are encouraging for their parties. It is better if no one party claims victory, he felt.

Political analyst Prof Sandeep Shastri said, "This is a post-event rationalisation, claiming the person or candidate is theirs after the victory. It may be convenient for parties to persuade these members to swear loyalties. It has happened ever since the elections started. Party affiliation below the district level is extremely fluid and is largely linked to who they support. If the leader they support changes parties, they also change loyalties. It's no surprise if Congress and JDS leaders also claim they won the election."

Will finish term as CM, says Yediyurappa

"When the party in-charge has clarified on this issue, why should there be any confusion over it? I agree that one or two MLAs had made such statements. But I have not given importance to such statements. Since the day I took charge, I am concentrating only on the development of the state," CM Yediyurappa stressed.

"There is no confusion regarding this among the party leaders, ministers or MLAs. The issue of change in leadership is being discussed only in the media," he remarked, and added that he will soon be holding meetings with MLAs to discuss the development works in their constituencies.

He said that his only dream is to make Karnataka the Number One state and Bengaluru the Number One city in the country.

Tourism dept issues series of guidelines for hotels, resorts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka tourism department has issued guidelines for hotels, resorts and bars, in the wake of rising cases of drugs being found.

While tourism is flourishing despite the pandemic, such illegal activities will drive away tourists and mar the state'S image, and compromise the safety of domestic and international tourists, the department said.

Property owners have been directed to submit documents to the Assistant Commissioner of Bengaluru, within 15 days. The list of documents include: No Objection Certificate from jurisdictional police station, BBMP and other departments, clearance from Karnataka State Pollution Control Board and food safety department.

Fire and emergency department guidelines should be adhered to, besides clearance from forest department irrespective of whether it falls under eco-sensitive zones or not, licence from excise department, certificate from income-tax department, clearance and certification from the National Stunts Academy if stunts are being preformed, and monthly financial statements.

The guidelines also state that the property owner must display the availability of rooms, rates and Covid-19 guidelines being adhered to.

8 vandalise restaurant over long wait for food

Bengaluru: Tension gripped Malagala on Tuesday night after a group of men created a ruckus at a restaurant over delay in their order being served. Based on CCTV footage, six suspects have been arrested and police are investigating further. The suspects are Lohit, Nithin, Bharath, Vinay, Chandan and Keerthi, who are all aged between 23 and 27 years. While two are drivers, the four others are students of private colleges, revealed police. Police said that around 10 pm, a group of eight people arrived at the restaurant for dinner and placed an order, which took a while to be served at their table. The delay in serving the food reportedly enraged the group, and they resorted to throwing tables and vandalising the premises. The restaurant's owner, Harish, immediately called the police control room to report the incident and a Hoysala patrol team rushed to the spot. The six suspects were nabbed, while two managed to escape.

MPs write to BBMP chief over naming of roads

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Karwar/ Bengaluru

TWO Lok Sabha MPs -- Ananth Kumar Hegde from Uttara Kannada and Tejasvi Surya from Bengaluru South – have written to the Commissioner, BBMP over its newspaper advertisements to name some of the streets of Padarayanapura (Ward 135) after local Muslim leaders.

In his letter, Hegde says that he does not see any roads being named after people of any other religion or community. "This is nothing but glorifying the people of a particular community in the guise of honouring social workers," he said, in his letter dated December 30, 2020. Referring to advertisements dated December 16 in some newspapers, he says it is unfortunate that names of other community members are not being recommended. "Such action by BBMP will lead to communal disharmony," he adds.

In a similar letter dated December 31, Surya says, "Christening of roads in a Muslim-dominated locality with only Muslim names reeks of the same communal mentality of the two-nation theory..."

No more fog blues, KIA now CAT-IIIB compliant

Bengaluru: Flyers, whose travel plans are disrupted during winter because of foggy conditions, can heave a sigh of relief as the South Runway of Kempegowda International Airport became CAT-IIIB compliant on Thursday. It is an upgrade, that permits operations of flights under low visibility conditions. Billing it as a 'New Year Gift to Passengers', Bengaluru airport becomes the first in South India and sixth in the country to achieve this distinction. Airports in Amritsar, Jaipur, Lucknow, Delhi and Kolkata are CAT-IIIB compliant. "With this upgrade, the South Runway can facilitate aircraft landing with a Runway Visual Range as low as 50 metres and take-offs at 125 metres. Until now, the permissible visual range was 550m and 300m, for landing and take-off, respectively," the release said. The rehabilitation of the North Runway, which has been closed for operations from June 22, is under way. The rehabilitation includes strengthening and resurfacing of the runway as well as installation of LED Runway Centre Line lights and Runway Edge Lights. "These enhancements will offer flexibility to operate in low visibility and adverse weather conditions," the release added.

GOLD IN A SWEET SPOT NOW, BUT INVEST WITH CARE

In a year marked by volatile financial markets, gold—true to its type as a bulwark in troubled times—has performed well. In India, the precious metal soared to a record high of ₹56,191 per 10 grams, a 43% increase at peak, and averaged returns of 28% for investors. In offshore gold bourses too, the metal has touched a high of $2,075 per ounce in August. The spectacular rise of gold is in tandem with central banks like the RBI slashing interest rates to record lows and governments doling out stimulus packages to soften the blow of the pandemic. As the economy slowly stabilises, investment flows have gone back to stock markets, causing some dip in the metal's price.

Going forward into the new year, it appears the long-term demand for gold is going to sustain, pushing up its prices even further. All the fundamentals—the uncertainties of the continuing pandemic, banks pushing down interest rates and low yields in other asset classes of investment—will continue to make gold the go-to harbour for parking funds. It is in this context market watchers are predicting gold scaling ₹60,000-65,000 per 10 grams during the coming year.

For the small, retail investor too, gold is therefore a good option, but it has to be exercised with caution. The Indian penchant for investing in gold jewellery should be avoided. Many have learned the hard way that the family jewellery they had stashed away in bank lockers for a rainy day turned out to be of much lower purity than the 24 carats the seller had promised. The more secure option is the traditional gold coins or bars that carry a hallmark of purity in compliance with BIS standards. There is the non-physical option too of either subscribing to sovereign gold bonds (SGBs) issued by the government; or buying units of gold exchange traded funds (ETFs) listed on the stock market. Again, these assets cannot be stashed away and forgotten. The market has to be carefully watched, and like shares on the stock market, decisions taken when to buy and when to offload.

SPORTS DURING COVID: TO 2021 WITH HOPE

Sport is a metaphor for the struggles of life—its innate ability to lacerate, heal and resurrect, and the propensity to tenaciously hang on to hope even in times of despair. The sporting ecosystem, between March to June, was gripped with fear. The Covid pandemic had eviscerated the sporting calendar. Events were cancelled left, right and centre; losses threatened to run into billions as organisers woke up to realise they hadn't insured against a pandemic—something that was never in their vocabulary. Ways and means to restart were planned with war-like intensity. 'Bio-bubble' found its way into the sporting lexicon. Fast forward to December and the outlook seems much better. Combining science, technology and human tenacity, meets have been going on for the last six months. Playing behind closed doors and putting rules such as no handshakes, fist bumps, etc., in place have helped the sports industry plot its way back. With several vaccines having already secured emergency use authorisation, there is cautious optimism as we enter 2021.

But the rules put in place in 2020 will remain for a while. Spectators may or may not be allowed depending on a case-to-case basis. Even events may not be held as per their original schedule. The Indian Wells Masters—one of the most important events in tennis—doesn't figure in its original place in 2021. This means the virus will continue to dictate, at least to an extent, live sports. On Wednesday, Tokyo recorded 944 new cases, the second-highest daily increase. The International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the local organisers of 2020 Tokyo Olympics are keeping a close watch on the July 23-August 8 extravaganza. In India, there is a chance fans might be back in the stands when England visits early next year. Ditto for the Indian Premier League later in the year. Even the T20 World Cup, cricket's showpiece meet to be held in India this time, is set to go ahead with fans attending. The outlook is much better with the vaccines, but caution is still going to be the buzzword. Science and technology have shown the way forward and as things stand, the virus too will have to cooperate. If 2020 was looked at as a shattered story, 2021 is looked at with optimism and the crazy word, hope.

Two fundamental questions remain unanswered: Which vaccine/vaccines will India be using? How will the rollout happen?

VACCINATION PLANS STILL HAZY IN INDIA

DR SUMANTH C RAMAN

Political Analyst, Doctor and Healthcare IT Professional

AMIT BANDRE

India's Covid vaccination programme is all set to begin. Except for one small problem: there's no vaccine to give! Plans have been made, dry runs conducted in some states and targets have been given, but there is as yet no vaccine. Not only is there no locally made vaccine, the government has failed to even place orders for ones that are already in commercial use in many countries around the world.

As country after country starts vaccinating its citizens against Covid, Indians anxiously await information on when one of the world's largest immunisation programmes to vaccinate a country of 1.3 billion people would begin. While China and Russia have been vaccinating their citizens since September-October or perhaps even earlier, the UK became the first Western country to launch its programme with the Pfizer vaccine. Within days, the US followed suit. Earlier, the UAE and Bahrain approved the Chinese vaccines and started their programme. This week, the EU launched its own drive with the aim of giving a billion doses of Covid vaccines by the end of 2021. Countries like Canada and Singapore have also commenced attempts to protect their residents.

In India though, the plans are still hazy. Two fundamental questions remain unanswered: Which vaccine/vaccines will India be using? How will the rollout happen?

The answer to the first question still does not seem clear. At this point, it appears that the Covishield vaccine of Oxford University-Serum Institute and Covaxin by Bharat Biotech-ICMR (BBV152B) may be the only two that are chosen.

Covaxin, in phase 3 clinical trials, was to be tested on 25,900 volunteers. Media reports say that until last week, only half that number of volunteers had been recruited. Also, the approval for the phase 3 trials was given only on November 11. Even assuming the trial started from November 15, the second dose of the vaccine would have been given only 28 days after the first. So it would only have been in mid-December that the first volunteers could have received the second dose. The end point measurement was to start 42 days after the first dose and this would mean that December 27 would be the earliest that outcome measurement can even start. So it is impossible for us to expect the trial to be completed anytime before mid-or end-February if indeed the initial plan of recruiting 25,900 people still holds. How Bharat Biotech applied for emergency use authorisation without phase 3 trials is a mystery. Thankfully, it was turned down and the firm was asked to submit phase 3 data.

Even less is known about Covishield except what is claimed by those doing the trial. Unlike Covaxin, even the phase 2 clinical trial data (combined with phase 3 under a special approval) of Covishield has not been made available in the public domain. While it is believed to be only a version of the Oxford University-AstraZeneca vaccine, the approvals that need to be obtained are country-specific. Also, this vaccine has been developed using the master seed of the AZD1222 Oxford University-AstraZeneca vaccine and its efficacy needs to be confirmed, on whether it is on par with the original. The Oxford University vaccine was approved in the UK on December 30 and so it is expected that approvals in India will be obtained soon. But as yet, the government has not placed any firm orders for this vaccine either.

The reluctance in putting out and/or the delays in publishing the data and having it peer reviewed—both absolutely essential steps for scientists to determine the efficacy and safety of the vaccines—is deeply troubling. But India has put all its Covid vaccine eggs in these two baskets. Unlike many countries that have spread their risks by placing orders for multiple vaccines, India has not placed orders for the Pfizer or Moderna vaccines or even the Sinovac Chinese vaccine (that has put out at least its phase 2 data). Incredibly, India even allowed Dr Reddy's Laboratories to carry out phase 3 trials on the Russian Sputnik V vaccine, about which precious little is known. While it is believed that DRL has the option of manufacturing 100 million doses of Sputnik V if it is approved for the Indian market, the government has been largely silent about this.

This strategy of focusing only on vaccine development, something India has never done until 2018, needs to be urgently corrected. The need of the hour is to immediately start the vaccination programme and provide hope to people that there is light at the end of the tunnel. Had the Centre pre-booked the Pfizer or Moderna vaccines as so many countries have done, at least healthcare workers and at-risk persons would have started receiving the vaccine by now. While the higher cost and the storage requirement of –70 degrees (for the Pfizer vaccine—it can be taken out from this temperature, stored in a fridge and administered within five days) were dampeners, the economic spin-offs of seeing a way out of the crisis may well have made at least a part of the investment worthwhile.

> Had the Centre pre-booked the Pfizer or Moderna vaccines as so many countries did, at least healthcare workers and at-risk persons would have started receiving them by now

The EU has placed orders for 300 million doses of the Pfizer vaccine, the US 100 million, Japan 120 million, Canada 26 million and Israel 8 million. Peru, Costa Rica, Ecuador, New Zealand, Australia, Singapore, Kuwait, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Switzerland are among other countries that have booked the Pfizer vaccine. Here's the clincher: China, which was the first off the blocks with its own Sinopharm and Sinovac vaccines, has placed an order for 100 million doses of the Pfizer vaccine. The Moderna vaccine, though predominantly (for now) for use in the US, has also found orders coming in from the EU, Japan and Qatar. India needs to urgently place orders for the vaccines already in commercial use like the Pfizer/Moderna vaccines, at least as a short-term measure.

The rollout process also needs clarity. Health in India is predominantly a state subject and attempts by the Centre to issue diktats have met with limited success over the years. Early in the Covid crisis, the Centre tried to impose its way on procurement of test kits, but fortunately good sense prevailed and state governments were allowed to do their own procurement. It will be wise if the Centre follows the same practice and allows states to do their own vaccine procurement and plan their vaccination programme. State health authorities know their populations far better than those in the Union health ministry or ICMR and unless the Centre wants to hog the credit for saving the people from Covid, it will be well advised to avoid the landmine that such a massive rollout could turn out to be.

The credibility of any vaccine being used extensively in the Western countries will be much higher than homemade vaccines. If indeed there are side effects in a few, the vaccine programme will not be derailed with a Western vaccine unlike with Indian vaccines, where it will be easier for anti-vaxxers to cast aspersions on their safety and efficacy. The government needs to ensure that both Bharat Biotech and Serum Institute put out the phase 3 clinical trial data and have them peer reviewed at the earliest. In parallel, an Information, Education and Communication (IEC) campaign must be started, and the public must be made aware of how the rollout is going to be operationalised.

The challenge is massive but experience with Covid has shown that many state governments are up to the task. They must be empowered to deliver.

NEED TO CONSOLIDATE AGAIN, NBFCs & CO-OPS THIS TIME

SANDIP SEN

Journalist and author, has written three books on economic governance

Sixty years ago, in August 1960, two large banks—the Lakshmi Commercial Bank and the Palai Central Bank of Kerala—failed in quick succession. The banking sector had no regulator then. The then finance minister Morarji Desai was having a gruelling time convincing the RBI to regulate the thousand-odd banks. The central bank refused to do so because it had limited staff and resources and did not have the legal mandate to regulate banks. The finance ministry had already advised these banks to voluntarily consolidate two years ago, but there were hardly any mergers or acquisitions. Meanwhile, banks were falling like ninepins.

Desai, who had been advocating self-regulation, was forced to make consolidation and amalgamation compulsory so that only strong banks that met the liquidity norms would be allowed to function. D N Ghosh, who was then the deputy secretary of the banking division prior to becoming Chairman of SBI in 1984 and of L&T and Phillips in the nineties, writes in his memoirs: "For the next three years, endless applications for consolidation was processed by the banking division—almost two dozen daily." In 1964, the number of commercial banks was pared down to 92. Of these, the central bank found that 20 were still financially unsound to be included in the RBI's second schedule. So there started a debate in Parliament over how to make them accountable. Finally, the Banking Companies Act was changed to the Banking Regulation Act in August 1966 for the RBI to effectively regulate them.

Sixty years later, can the RBI regulate 1 lakh NBFCs and co-operative banks? In 2015, after the RBI started its Asset Quality Review of banks, many laws were put in place to both resolve stressed assets and stop money laundering and bank frauds. But banking frauds have risen and so have the non-performing-assets. As the banks tightened the lending norms, the problem aggravated for NBFCs and co-operative banks, which like sick industries, were getting easy credit from the commercial banks. After 2018, a series of NBFCs collapsed, starting with the IL&FS, DHFL and HDIL adding another ₹2 trillion to the bad loan account.

Several co-operative banks such as the CKP Bank, Kapol Co-operative Bank, Rupee Co-operative Bank, City Co-operative Bank and the PMC Bank that were placed under the RBI's watch since 2010 have collapsed. The depositors lost money while the fraudsters closely associated with the bank management made hay. Not one co-operative bank placed under the RBI's watchlist in the last decade has been revived. The regulator has neither the manpower nor the powers or a blueprint to revive the co-operative banks. Still, 44 more co-operative banks were placed under the watch of the regulator in 2020.

> The RBI has a staff of 16,000, nearly half of what it had in the nineties. It is barely enough to regulate the three dozen commercial banks. ...For effective regulation, the number of NBFCs must be brought down to below 100 and the co-operative banks to below 1,500

The problem is twofold. The RBI has a staff of 16,000, nearly half of what it had in the nineties. It is barely enough to regulate the three dozen commercial banks. On the other hand, there are 11,000 NBFCs, 1,500 urban co-operatives banks and 96,000 rural co-operative banks, which would require an army of supervisors, inspectors and analysts to monitor and regulate. For effective regulation, the number of NBFCs must be brought down to below 100 and the co-operative banks to below 1,500. This means that forced consolidation of both NBFCs and co-operative banks must take place at the earliest, just like the forced consolidation of commercial banks in the sixties.

Bank frauds have been doubling each year and touched ₹1.82 lakh crore in the year 2019-20. That was nearly 1.2% of the GDP. The Sahara co-operatives and others have added another ₹1 lakh crore to scams in the past year. A large number of frauds and NPAs are occurring in the co-operative banking sector that accounts for just 10% of the business but caters to 25% of the population at the bottom of the pyramid. These RCBs and UCBs, which are largely funded by commercial banks, are sparsely regulated simply because of their large numbers and wide geographic spread. Most of these banks have poor asset bases when compared to liabilities and have political families in their boards who resist change. Instead of taking action on these banks selectively after they have nearly gone bust, a forced consolidation is needed to reach a scale so that they can be divested and rejuvenated.

Breaking the ice

The sixth round of talks between the Centre and agitating farm unions helped break the ice to an extent and set up opportunities for further interaction. Both sides agreed on two issues—the decriminalisation of stubble burning and the safeguarding of power subsidies. But a cloud of uncertainty still hangs over the more contentious issues of farm laws' repeal and legal guarantee for MSP.

Glimmer of hope

The agreements on air pollution law and electricity amendment bill show that the government is willing to listen to the genuine concerns of farmers. Let's hope the new year will see the resolution of the other issues.

A good start

That both sides decided to accept the food offered by the other makes it clear that the ice has started melting. One hopes that the next round of talks to be held on January 4 over the new farm laws would be more productive.

Extend tax filing deadline

It was a disappointment to see that the last date for filing tax returns has been extended by just 10 days. One expected the government to be more liberal and gracefully extend the deadline right up to the end of the financial year as a relief to citizens as well as professionals involved in the job, considering the stress already undergone by them on account of the pandemic.

Will still serve people

In spite of the kidney transplant, actor Rajinikanth, with all sincerity, wanted to serve the people by entering politics. He has now taken a wise decision. It will be unfair on the part of his fans and others to apply pressure on him to reconsider his decision. I am sure he will serve people in his own way, which will hurt neither his health nor his peace of mind.

Democracy and hypocrisy

Rahul Gandhi has recently said that democracy doesn't exist in India. He is the leader of a party where the said democracy hardly exists. It would be pertinent to note that his grandmother Indira Gandhi made a mockery of democracy by imposing the Emergency.

More data needed

Instead of jumping on the vaccination bandwagon straightaway after the UK approved the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine for human use, India's drug regulator did well to seek more data on human trials before using it with uncertain safety and efficacy profiles.

This is with reference to Tackling the rise of right-wing authoritarianism (Dec 28). I agree with some of the author's remarks but his contention that mainstream media in India is biased in favour of the BJP is baseless. It is a fact that most sections of the English media and the press in TN are biased, but against the Centre. Yes, there are a few loud TV channels that sensed this vacuum and being opportunistic, they have taken advantage of this.

Rampant use of convalescent plasma behind Covid mutation?

Convalescent plasma might alter the virus allowing escape mutations to dominate, says study

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

A latest study in the US, the UK and Italy has shown that convalescent plasma used indiscriminately for Covid — as it has been in India — might alter the virus allowing escape mutations to dominate.

An escape mutation allows SARS-COV-2 to evade antibodies specific to the spike protein which the virus uses to enter human cells.

Incidentally, ICMR director general Balaram Bhargava had warned against the random usage of unproven therapy such as convalescent plasma for Covid, saying that such practices put immune pressure on virus to mutate.

To investigate the evolution of SARS-CoV-2 in the immune population, scientists co-incubated authentic virus with a highly neutralising plasma from a Covid convalescent patient. It was found that the plasma fully neutralised the virus initially but after 80 days helped generate a variant completely resistant to plasma neutralisation. "The recent emergence in the UK and South Africa of natural variants with similar changes suggests that SARS-CoV-2 has the potential to escape an effective immune response and that vaccines and antibodies able to control emerging variants should be developed," they noted.

Many experts have been saying that rampant use of plasma therapy without prior testing for neutralising antibodies will do more harm than good. "If plasma from someone who had a weak infection is used, the antibodies present might not be strong enough to neutralize the infection in the person the plasma is administered to," said an ICMR scientist. "In that event the infection may not be completely eliminated but could mutate. That mutation could possibly lead to strains of the virus that are more concerning because they are more infectious."

Others, meanwhile, pointed out that the ICMR warning should have come much earlier. "Except Dexamethasone, the only drug with proven efficacy in hospitalized and hypoxic patients with Covid, no other therapy has consistently worked in Covid-," said S P Kalantri, a medical researcher.

The list of ineffective and unproven drugs include HCQ, lopinavir-ritonavir, favipiravir, azithromycin, he said. "ICMR finally seems to have made some amends but the warning has come a bit too late."

Cases of mutant Covid jumps to 25

New Delhi: Five new cases of the UK strain of Covid-19 have been detected in India, which takes the total number of such patients to 25. The highly infectious mutant strain, which first surfaced in the UK in September, was found to have reached India two days ago with travellers returning from the island nation. Four of the five new cases were found by National Institute of Virology, Pune and the remaining one was sequenced at CSIR-Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology, Delhi, said the Union ministry of health and family welfare on Thursday. All 25 patients have been kept in isolation at designated health facilities. India had detected 14 new cases on Wednesday, out of which 8 were detected at the NCDC in Delhi, 4 at the National Institute of Mental Health and Neuro-Sciences Hospital in Bengaluru, and 1 each at the IGIB and the NIBG in West Bengal. On Tuesday, six people — three from Karnataka and one each from Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and UP — found with the mutant virus.

PARAMILITARY, CIVIC WORKERS, POLICE AMONG FRONTLINE WORKERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Centre has finalised the definition of a frontline warrior including six services into the category — police, paramilitary personnel, civic workers dealing with municipal waste treatment related activities, fire safety personnel, prison staffers and disaster management professionals working with National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) .

These frontline workers would be the first recipients of the Covid vaccine in the country. The first category will also include personnel of civil defence and home guards.

Prison staffers were originally not enlisted in the frontline warriors but the Ministry of Home Affairs stressed that prison staff across the country be treated as frontline workers, and get them vaccinated in earlier rounds. Demands of some states such as Bihar to enlist revenue and power utility staffers as frontline workers could not be fulfilled, government officials said.

The decision was taken by the Centre in consultation with the states. States and Union Territories were earlier told through a meeting to appoint state-level nodal officers for the vaccine roll-out plan. The Centre has already started simultaneous dry-run for the vaccine roll-out plan in four states.

Nearly 30 crore Indians will receive two-shot Covid vaccine in the first two rounds of immunisation. In the first phase of immunisation drive, one crore health workers and an estimated two crore other frontline workers will be given the vaccine. They will be followed, in the second round, by people aged above 50 years and those with comorbidities, whose population is estimated to be nearly 27 crore.

No complacency even after Covid shots, says PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

STATING that 2021 will be a year of health solution, Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the run up to an imminent rollout of Covid vaccine tweaked an old slogan to give a new mantra of 'Dawai bhi, Kadai bhi (vaccine and caution both'.

Modi had previously given the slogan of 'Jab tak dawai nahi, tab tak dhilali nahi (no relaxation until vaccines are available)'.

Every necessary preparation for the vaccine is going on and efforts are in the final stages for making the indigenous vaccine rapidly reach every nook and corner of the country, he said, adding India is poised for the twin roles of "health of future and future of health".

After laying the foundation stone of AIIMS-Rajkot, the PM lauded the unity of the people in dealing with the Covid and noted that the infection graph is going down as compared to other countries.

Noting that India's preparation is in full swing to run the world's largest immunisation campaign, he sought cooperation of the people to make the vaccination successful and stressed that the rumour should be effectively countered. "If 2020 was the year of health challenges, 2021 is going to become the year of health solutions. The world will move towards health solutions. India will play a major role in the health solutions. India's contribution for health solutions of 2021 will be critical for the scaling up of the responses."

In the backdrop of the pandemic, Modi noted that it is time for coordinated global response for global health solutions.

On Jaipur highway, farmers try to smash pass barricades

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A few farmers tried to break through Haryana Police barricades at the Shahjahanpur-Khera border on the Jaipur-Delhi highway in a bid to move towards Delhi, forcing the police to use a water cannon and tear gas to disperse them.

The police said young farmers rode about 25 tractor-trailers to smash through the barricades. Sources said they were stopped near Bhudla village in Rewari district.

"One of the youths drove his tractor recklessly, endangering the lives of police personnel and some others who tried to stop him," said an official. Sources said appeals by Swaraj Abhiyan chief Yogendra Yadav and other farmer leaders present at the site went in vain.

Traffic was diverted due to a sudden movement of the farmers. However, alternate routes too were jammed.

Superintendent of Police of Rewari Abhishek Jorwal said, "Some young farmers turned violent and were not ready to listen to their leaders."

A large number of farmers from Rajasthan, Haryana and some other places have been protesting on the Jaipur-Delhi highway for over a fortnight.

Nagaur MP Hanuman Beniwal said it was done by some 'overexcited youths'. "Delhi march is not that important because we want to get the issue resolved through dialogue with the government."

A large number of farmers from Rajasthan, Haryana and some other places have been protesting on the Jaipur-Delhi highway for past over a fortnight. They have been sitting at the Rajasthan-Haryana border point since police stopped them from proceeding towards Delhi.

'Loan waiver could have helped poor'

NEW DELHI: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Thursday targeted the Narendra Modi government over loan waivers of around ₹2.37 lakh crore to a few industrialists and that the amount could have been used to give ₹20,000 each to 11 crore families. "The Modi government this year waived loans of ₹2,37,876 crore of a few industrialists. With this amount, 11 crore families could have been provided ₹20,000 each in these difficult COVID times. The truth about Modi ji's development," he tweeted. The Congress leader has been attacking the Modi government for supporting industrialists at the cost of poor and farmers. During lockdown, the Congress had demanded that the Centre should transfer cash to accounts of poor people who faced difficulties.

BJP drafts veterans to deal with challenges arising from farm protest, poll preparations

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

THE BJP has roped in its veterans to shoulder organisational responsibilities in Punjab and Haryana, besides bolstering the party's reach among Dalits.

The Thursday's decision is seemingly in line with an assessment of the tough political challenges in the northern states on account of the farmers' protests.

BJP veteran Saudan Singh was appointed the vice-president of the organisation with the responsibilities of Punjab, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and Chandigarh, which will also be his base. Singh was the joint general secretary (organization) earlier, and was seen much in action in Rajasthan.

The BJP has also appointed the party veteran V Satish as a "Sangathak (organiser)", with the responsibility including SC-ST Morcha coordination. Satish will also look after the Parliamentary office coordination. Additionally, national joint general secretary Shiv Prakash, with a base in Bhopal, will look after the party's affairs in Madhya Pradesh, Chhatishgarh, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and West Bengal.

Saudan Singh's task is cut out apparently with the BJP seemingly facing the ire of the farmers in Punjab. The ripple effect of the agitation is also showing impact in Haryana. In Himachal Pradesh, the BJP will be bracing up for the Assembly elections in 2022.

The Hathras gangrape in UP had for a while shown the BJP's weakness in lacking credible Dalit leadership. The BJP leadership will be counting upon Satish, who has vast experience in the RSS and the party, to work on the strategy to consolidate support base among the Dalit, which is seen electorally formidable in the western UP.

Modi to launch Light House projects in six cities on New Year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will lay the foundation stone of Light House Projects under Global Housing Technology Challenge-India (GHTC-India) at six sites in as many states on January 1.

It will showcase the best of new-age alternate global technologies, materials and processes in the construction sector for the first time in the country at such a large scale.

Officials said that the PM will also announce winners under Affordable Sustainable Housing Accelerators-India (ASHA-India) and give out annual awards for excellence in implementation of the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana - Urban (PMAY-U) Mission. The Mission has been designed to achieve the vision of 'Housing For All by 2022'.

During the event, the PM will also release a certificate course on innovative construction technologies named NAVARITIH (New, Affordable, Validated, Research Innovation Technologies for Indian Housing) and a compendium of 54 innovative housing construction technologies identified through GHTC-India.

Light House Projects are being constructed at Indore (MP), Rajkot (Gujarat), Chennai (Tamil Nadu), Ranchi (Jharkhand), Agartala (Tripura) and Lucknow (UP). They comprise about 1000 houses at each location along with allied infrastructure facilities.

The LHPs will serve as live laboratories for facilitating transfer of technology to the field and its further replication. This includes planning, design, production of components, construction practices and testing for both faculty and students of IITs, NITs, other engineering colleges, planning and architecture colleges, builders and other stakeholders.

ASHA-India aims to promote domestic research and entrepreneurship by providing incubation and acceleration support to potential future technologies.

Conserve dorms at IIM-A campus, no need for cultural vandalism, say academicians

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

OVER 600 architects, academics from over 30 nations have written to the IIM-Ahmedabad against the proposed demolition of the premier institute's dormitories.

The signatories, including scholars from 118 universities, called it an act of "cultural vandalism".

The IIM-Ahmedabad campus has generated attention and study in classrooms and architecture offices around the world, the experts said. "Various institutions with aging modernisms are looking up to IIM-A to lead by way of example. A comprehensive conservation effort for the entire campus would be a befitting tribute to your own rich architectural heritage, which is also our collective heritage," they wrote.

If done appropriately, they said, it would warrant a UNESCO World Heritage status. "We believe the letter collectively embodies the voice and belief of the architecture and design profession. The letter states that the proposed demolition of the IIM-A dormitories will seriously damage the global reputation of IIM-A. It would be an act of cultural vandalism. The letter calls upon IIM-A to embrace a comprehensive plan for conservation of the entire old campus, and lead the conservation efforts of modernist architecture, by way of example," the signatories said.

> The dormitory buildings are intrinsic to the historic core of IIM-A and cannot be separated formally or experientially from the buildings around the Louis Kahn plaza. ... Together they make a singular campus setting with no precedent nor match in the world.
> Letter

The dormitories were designed by architect Louis Kahn. "It seriously jeopardises the legacy of Louis Kahn and of modernist architecture, especially in the Indian subcontinent, where there is a dire need for the conservation of modernist heritage," reads the letter. "There are many successful examples across the world of modernist architectures being creatively repurposed, retrofitted, and in some cases rebuilt, while preserving their architectural ethos," it adds.

Army Colonel who secured Siachen for India passes away

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INDIA lost a soldier and explorer on Thursday as Colonel Narinder Kumar, who was part of India's first team to scale the Mount Everest, breathed his last in New Delhi.

But it's as the saviour of Siachen that he is best remembered. If it were not for his expeditions to the Siachen Glacier and the Saltoro Range as Commandant of the Army's High Altitude Warfare School, Pakistan could have annexed Siachen. Based on his recce reports the Army launched Operation Meghdoot in April 1984 and captured the main passes and ridges along the Saltoro Range.

Col Kumar was commissioned in 1953 into the Army's Kumaon Regiment at the Indian Military Academy, Dehradun. Hailing him as "a mountaineer par excellence", Army spokesperson Col Aman Anand said, "He was the first Indian to climb Mt Nanda Devi. He climbed Mt Everest in 1965, Mt Blanc (the highest peak in the Alps) and later Mt Kanchenjunga from the toughest N-E spur He scaled all these peaks despite losing four toes due to frost bite."

Col Kumar earned the nickname 'BULL' for relentlessly charging into everything he did.

Remembering Col Kumar, Lt Gen (retd) Sanjay Kulkarni said, "My association with him goes back to 1978 when I was training in the High Altitude Warfare School. We knew that he was already involved in recce of Siachen. The significance of his task was understood when I was posted to Siachen."

Lt-Gen Kulkarni was deployed in Siachen as Captain on April 13 when the Operation Meghdoot was launched. "He was a bull in terms of his physical structure and his spirit to go ahead, howsoever the difficult the path was," said Kulkarni. "In Siachen, he was able to walk into the areas which were not marked on maps and could recognise and report the violations by the Pakistan side."

Hot potato job drive dropped by Bengal BJP

Says people misconstrued drive to collect data as employment guarantee scheme

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

THE BJP's West Bengal unit has decided to scrap the 'job assurance' drive launched by the party's youth wing after senior leaders picked holes in the plan. The decision came after veterans said such promises could hand the Trinamool Congress (TMC) the whip to lash it with for making 'false promises'. The BJP youth wing had planned to target 75 lakh unemployed youth and hand them 'assurance' cards.

The Bengal BJP had announced the drive on December 13, promising 'job assurance cards' to unemployed youth spread across 294 Assembly segments. The party's plan was to prepare a database of 75 lakh jobless youth with their academic and extracurricular background. Those with the cards were promised jobs, based on their academic qualifications, over the next five years, if the party came to power in 2021.

A senior BJP leader said there was a problem with the term 'jobs'. "Many people thought they would get jobs with the card issued by our party. We only wanted to conduct a survey to gauge the level of unemployment. After the survey, we had a plan to design a roadmap for employment generation. Based on the word 'job' mentioned in the card, the aspirants started thinking that the BJP-led state government would give them government jobs, which is not the case. There could be private jobs or business suggestions from us," he said.

However, another senior BJP leader said that offering jobs based on the database was impossible. "Already there is employment exchange to provide jobs to the unemployed. We found that our initiative could be used by the Trinamool Congress against us in the run-up to the Assembly election," the leader said.

> Many thought they would get jobs with the cards. We only wanted to conduct a survey to gauge the level of unemployment. We had a plan to design a roadmap for employment generation
>
> A BJP leader

The BJP has made the unemployment issue in the state its poll plank and never misses an opportunity to target Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on this.

While launching the programme, BJP's national vice president Mukul Roy had said, "No investment has come to the state for setting up industries despite the chief minister organizing several global investment summits. Besides, those who have business units in the states are moving out because of the syndicate raj."

Call for probe into encounter gets louder; DGP backs action

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A day after three militants were killed in an encounter with the security forces on the outskirts of Srinagar, the relatives of the deceased on Thursday claimed that the youth were innocent and demanded a probe into the gunfight. The relatives demanded that the bodies of the youth be handed over to them for burial according to customs.

While assuring to look into the claims of fake encounter, Director General of Police Dilbagh Singh, during a press conference, said, "I have no reason to dispute what the GoC Kilo Force (H S Sahi) stated about the Lawaypora encounter yesterday (Wednesday), in which three militants were killed. The families of two deceased youth say their wards had gone to submit forms at the University, but I want to ask them what their children were doing at the encounter site."

Earlier in the day, PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti visited Pulwama and met the families of two youth killed in the gunfight. She also released a letter written by the family of one of the killed militants, Aijaz Ahmad Ganai, to Lt Governor Manoj Sinha, urging him to order an inquiry into the killings and hand over of the body of the for proper burial. The bodies were buried at a graveyard in central Kashmir's Ganderbal district by police, which has stopped handing over the bodies of the local militants to their kin owing to Covid-19.

The police said that while the three youth were not listed militants, an investigation was underway to ascertain the claims of their relatives. Meanwhile, political parties, including National Conference, CPM, Congress, and J&K Apni Party also demanded a thorough probe.

MIGRANTS STITCH A SUCCESS STORY

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

HUNDREDS of workers and artisans skilled in embroidery and readymade garment manufacturing have turned Covid-19 quarantine centres into a mini textile-hub in Bihar. They had returned from various states during the corona-induced lockdown to West Champaran district. They have now started manufacturing as many as 43 goods in the Chanpatia-based Bazar-Samiti premises where they were once quarantined upon their arrival.

On Thursday Chief Minister Nitish Kumar visited the Chanpatia based Innovative Start-Up Zone where workers-turned-entrepreneurs demonstrated what self-reliance is.

The zone has employed around 400 migrant workers. Here's an instance: Manoj Kumar is skilled in stitching jackets and returned from J&K. "When we returned during lockdown, we remained quarantined here for 14 days. Thanks to DM Kundan Kumar's encouragement and support, we have started manufacturing jackets and track suits".

The CM was surprised when informed about the export of jackets manufactured from the hub to Qatar, Spain and Italy. The track-suits are supplied to Leh & Ladakh.

"Around 50,000 track-suits manufactured by these workers have been supplied to Leh and Ladakh while jackets are exported," said Deputy CM Renu Devi, accompanying the CM at Chanpatia.

Kundan Kumar, DM of West Champaran, who encouraged the migrant workers after mapping their skills to start such an enterprise, informed the CM that one of the reputed brands of tracksuits based at Noida had placed a huge order for tracksuits manufactured by these workers at Chanpatia.

One of the workers, engaged in manufacturing jackets of various designs, said jackets of international quality are priced much below to improve their exportability while still maintaining a decent profit margin.

The chief minister has promised all help to these workers. Deputy chief minister Renu Devi said Chanpatia would be developed as a mini-textile hub with improved infrastructure.

Redstone from Mirzapur new alternative for temple's base

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

TECHNICAL experts overseeing the construction of the Ram Temple in Ayodhya are considering using red stones from Mirzapur as an alternative to a mixture of cement, concrete, and sand to lay the foundation of the structure. Through this, the experts aim to safeguard the temple from the dangers posed by any water stream for centuries. The new plan came up for consideration after the works were delayed due to the presence of loose sand around 200 feet under the ground.

According to sources in Shree Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust, the works on the foundation is expected to start in the next 15 days. The temple construction committee has asked the Hyderabad-based National Geophysical Research Institute (NGRI) to study the soil at the site, especially the area where the sanctum sanctorum is proposed. The NGRI report is expected in 15 days.

Initially, water from till around 50 feet under the ground would be drained and the loose sand dug out. Then, the red stones would be laid to make the foundation. However, the strength of the stones would be tested layer-by-layer by the engineers of Tata Consultant and Larson Toubro before consolidating the foundation, sources said, adding that this new design of the foundation was approved at the temple trust meeting at Delhi on Tuesday.

Teen shoots classmate dead in school

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

A 14-year-old boy shot dead his classmate in the classroom of a private school at Shikarpur in UP's Bulandshahr district on Thursday.

The victim, identified as Tarzan, was taken to a hospital, where he was declared dead on arrival. According to the police, the incident was fallout of an altercation between the victim and the accused Sanjeev (name changed) over a seat in the classroom on Wednesday.

Sources said that Sanjeev shot Tarzan with his uncle's service pistol, which he had stolen. He shot Tarzan in the head, chest, and the abdomen. Sanjeev's uncle is in the army, and came home on leave last week.

After shooting Tarzan dead, the boy tried to flee. He came to the ground floor from the first-floor and fired in the air to shoo away those trying to catch him. A few teachers managed to overpower him and take the weapon away despite resistance, the police said. The police found another country-made pistol in his bag.

Nagaland forest fire crosses Manipur border

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

A forest fire, which broke out on a hillock near Nagaland's picturesque Dzukou Valley two days ago, has spread to Manipur. Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh on Thursday tweeted: "Conducting an aerial survey to take stock of the wildfire that broke out at Dzuko valley 2-3 days back. The fire has spread quite extensively and caused serious damage on this part of mountain range."

He said personnel from fire service, forest officials, and volunteers were reaching the site on the Nagaland-Manipur border. Updating on the situation earlier in the day, Singh shared a couple of photos on Twitter. "This photo is clicked at 8.30 am from Mao side at Mount Khugho. (Dzukou FIRE). It has already crossed Mount ASIi, the highest peak of Manipur," he wrote.

He said if the wind blows towards south, there is a high possibility of the blaze spreading towards Manipur's thickest forest Koziirii.

Maharashtra real estate bounces back with record property registrations

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

WHILE most businesses and industries are reeling under the slump wrought about by Covid-19, Maharashtra's real estate sector has achieved a miracle of sorts. December saw a record number of property registrations — 3.84 lakh against the 1.25 lakh the previous year — in the state. The reason is the Maharashtra Revenue department reducing the stamp duty from 6% to 3% against the total value of the property for October to December.

That encouraged buyers while developers also declared some discount from their side as well. Some developers even paid the remaining stamp duty of the buyers to boost the slowing real estate sector. According to the Maharashtra government's stamp duty and registration department, in December, properties worth ₹2,845 crore were registered for the month. In 2020, 14.32 lakh properties were registered while the total revenue generation was ₹9,896 crore.

> The best month
>
> Data shows December was the best month for boith buyers and developers. I have never seen such enthusiasm, says the spokesperson of Maharashtra Chamber of Housing Industry (MCHI)-CREDAI

Revenue Minister Balasaheb Thorat said developers had made presentations about reducing stamp duty and registration to boost the property sector. "We were in two minds because if we went with developers, we would lose revenue. But we also needed to inject confidence into the real estate sector and buyers. Eventually, our decision has paid off. The Centre has appreciated our decision and is asking other states to follow the Maharashtra model," he said.

Tired of family feud, man names dog his heir

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

IF ever Jacky finds himself to be the centre of attraction and cannot fathom the reason, he cannot be blamed. For, it's not every day that a dog becomes a part-owner of 21 acres. Much like the Bollywood flick Entertainment, in which a dog inherits the wealth of a diamond merchant, Jacky's fortunes too are on an upward tick.

The circumstances leading to Jacky becoming the part-owner of the vast swathes unfolded in Madhya Pradesh's Chhindwara district, where a 50-year-old man troubled by his family feud decided to name his second wife and pet dog as his legal heirs. Om Narayan Verma, a resident of Badiwara in Chhindwara, got his will notarised and named his second wife Champa Bai and pet dog Jacky as successors.

Verma, in the will, claims he has immense love for Champa and Jacky, as they alone take care of him. Verma has given attention to details so that Jacky is not shortchanged in future. He has ensured that only those that take care of Jacky enjoy the benefit of the property in the canine's name. And in case Jacky dies, only those that took care of him throughout his life would inherit his share.

According to Verma, the will was drafted in anger over the family feud. However, the matter was resolved on Thursday. "The notarised will not only includes my dog's name, but also my wife Champa Bai's name. I mentioned my dog's name in it to ensure that my family takes proper care of Jacky after my death."

Verma says he never thought his will would spark such interest. Verma has two wives. While he has two daughters and a son from first marriage, he has two daughters from the second.

Historical Jawahar Market gets ₹24-cr makeover

Jawahar Bazar in the heart of Raipur has received a ₹24 crore makeover. The market on Malviya Road dates back to the pre-independence era. The historical market has been renovated by the Raipur Smart City Ltd. The inside of the structure was dismantled, while the main entrance gate was retained. The contemporary three-storey Bazar is now a parking-cum-commercial premise, housing 147 shops. During the British era, Jawahar Bazar was the preferred haunt of political emissaries, landlords, and other dignitaries.

State aims to procure Nagarnar Steel Plant

By adopting a resolution in the legislative assembly, the state government has made clear its intention to buy the National Mineral Development Corporation's Nagarnar integrated steel plant in Bastar region if the Centre goes ahead with its disinvestment plan. The opposition BJP too agreed to it. "We will not allow its transfer into private hands. Local tribals parted with their land for this public sector unit hoping that it will generate employment for them. They have been antagonised after learning that the plant is going to be privatized," Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said.

Surrendered Maoists to pen patriotic lyrics

Maoist rebels belonging to Chetna Natya Mandli (CNM) – a cultural outfit tasked with propagating revolutionary songs – will now write and sing patriotic songs in the regional Gondi dialect. After surrendering before the Dantewada district police chief Abhishek Pallava, they pledged to use their influence to expose the hollow ideology of the Maoists. They vowed to become a votary of development in the conflict-hit Bastar. "These ex-CNM members with their change of mind and heart will counter the Maoist propaganda. We will soon have their regular concerts in the naxal-affected villages," Pallava said.

* Proposed for True up  Modified estimate with FY-20 deficit carried forward

Based on the above ARR, the estimated Average Cost of Supply of power is more than the Average Rate of Realization as detailed below:

Centre mulling hike in standard I-T deduction

Government also considering increasing deductions for medical insurance expenses

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY
@ New Delhi

THE Centre is mulling raising the standard deduction limit for salaried taxpayers from the current ₹50,000 to about ₹60,000-70,000 per year. The increase is being considered since salaried taxpayers, who have been the most loyal contributors to the country's exchequer, are believed to have also suffered the most during the pandemic in terms of jobs losses, wage cuts, and longer work hours out of home.

"Wage earners also show high propensity to consume when given tax reliefs," noted a top finance ministry official. The government is also considering proposals to increase deductions for medical insurance, officials said.

"The move makes sense since when standard deduction was re-introduced in 2018, it was done at the cost of various allowable deductions... so it was not a big step in helping the middle class. Increases to take care of retail inflation and hardships makes sense," said S K Sarkar, FCA, past president of the Indo-American Chamber of Commerce. Officials said that they believed that for every rupee given as a tax credit, the middle class tended to spend about 80 paise of it.

The NDA government has a large middle class voter base and while Covid sops have been given to the poor, farmers, and to small businesses, few steps have been taken to help out the middle class, say analysts. Hence the move also makes political sense, they point out.

The demand for raising standard deduction has come not only from chartered accountants but also industry and members of the BJP party, according to sources.

A standard deduction is given to the salaried class in lieu of deductions which businessmen and consultants claim for their expenses. This deduction was done away in 2004-2005 as part of a bid to weed out various exemptions and make the taxation process simpler.

However, it was brought back after the NDA came to power while subsuming other tax-deductible allowances such as for transport and medical reimbursements—initially for ₹40,000 and later raised to ₹50,000 per annum.

NEW RULES

'Record high value cash deals for gems, gold'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DEALERS of precious metals and stones will now be required to maintain a record if they are dealing in cash transactions over ₹10 lakh.

The Finance Ministry has notified such dealers in precious metals and stones and also real estate agents with over ₹20 lakh turnover under the ambit of Prevention of Money Laundering Act.

Nangia & Co LLP Director Mayank Arora said the amendment aims to plug the loophole wherein cash transactions up to ₹2 lakh without KYC - PAN and Aadhaar' were allowed in the gems and jewellery sector. "This amendment classifies such dealers as reporting entities and such dealers would have to maintain records of all cash transactions cumulatively in excess of ₹10 lakhs with a customer," Arora said. He said real estate agents are also considered as a reporting entity under the PMLA, 2002.

ITAT retracts remarks against Mistry

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Mumbai bench of the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal (ITAT) has retracted certain critical remarks it had made against the Shapoorji Pallonji Group's chief Cyrus Mistry in its recent order upholding the tax-exempt status of three key Tata Trusts.

The tribunal issued a corrigendum on Wednesday to its December 28 order saying, "The critical remarks were due to a typo." Issued by president of the tribunal P P Bhatt and vice-president Pramod Kumar, it says that the first order made certain "inadvertent references to Mistry".

The tribunal had, in its earlier order, observed that Mistry's action of supplying material to the income tax department weeks after his removal as chairman of Tata Sons and without authorisation from the company cannot be said to be influenced by "call of pure conscience and high grounds of morality". Mistry had been removed as the Chairman of Tata Group in October 2016.

However, on Wednesday, the corrigendum said that the observations on Mistry had missed the fact that the information he furnished was in response to a notice from the assessing officer.

The ITAT also clarified, however, that "the above corrections will have no impact on the outcome of the appeal and the outcome of the appeal remains the same." Following the clarification, Mistry's office said in a statement that the reversal of these comments acknowledges that the information sent by him was conduct that is expected of any law abiding person.

"This acknowledgement by the ITAT corroborates the submissions in this regard put forward by the SP Group before the Supreme Court, and is one step towards the vindication of truth and justice," the statement said.

SEBI postpones rollout of new MF guidelines

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Markets regulator SEBI on Thursday extended the date for implementation of framework for uniformity in applicability of net asset value (NAV) across various schemes on realisation of funds to February 1, 2021 . SEBI, in September, came out with a framework for uniformity in applicability of NAV across various schemes on realisation of funds and the provision was to come into effect from January 1, 2021.

In respect of purchase of units of MF schemes (except liquid and overnight schemes), it had said that closing NAV of the day will be applicable on which the funds are available for utilisation irrespective of the size and time of receipt of such application. The decision to extend the date has been taken upon consideration of the representation received from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI) regarding operational challenges, Sebi said.

THIN MARGINS

TELECOM ALL SET TO BREAK PRICE HIKE STALEMATE

JONATHAN ANANDA @ New Delhi

INDIA'S telecom sector spent 2020 in a kind of stalemate—at least where prices were concerned. This, even as the massive AGR-related liabilities and attendant provisions attached to two out of the only three major private telecom operators in India resulted in quarter after quarter of large losses. Analysts have long held that another round of major price hikes was inevitable, but with India's telecom market virtually an oligopoly, 2020 saw it grapple with a problem unique to oligopolies that cannot agree.

Analysts note that a price hike is essential to bring margins back to sustainable levels, especially since a costly 5G roll-out beckons and network maintenance costs are likely to increase due to increased scrutiny on imported equipment. Even for Reliance Jio, which has no major AGR liabilities to deal with. For Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea, with large AGR payouts needed, a price hike is a critical requirement.

4G spectrum auctions may be lacklustre

According to ICRA Ratings, the spectrum auctions set for March 2021 largely is not likely to see any major participation and are expected to fetch ₹55,000 – 60,000 crore to the exchequer

However, all through 2020, the three firms kept prices stable, with industry executives saying that it was a matter of who blinks first. "The competition is intense and pricing is very important in the segment," said one requesting anonymity. The Covid pandemic and its impact made things worse initially, but the digital explosion has helped boost revenues. "Like any other sector, the telecom industry was also impacted by the pandemic with a sharp fall in the number of subscribers in March and April. However, business and individuals adopted digital ways, the telecom industry emerged as a saviour. Many telecom players have benefitted from a surge in the traffic of data and voice," noted COAI director general S P Kochhar.

Now however, with AGR payouts no longer uncertain, analysts expect hikes early this year. "A price hike, which looked uncertain in the last 6-9 months due to the challenging economic scenario, has started to look imminent with weakening subscriber growth across players. Our recent interactions with industry experts indicate a potential price hike of 15-20% in the next two months," Motilal Oswal Financial Services said in a recent report.

2021 will see EVs disrupt 2W segment: Hero Electric

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

ELECTRIC two-wheeler maker Hero Electric believes 2021 is going to be a disruptive year for India's auto sector because the electric vehicle segment—even though it was severely impacted by the Covid-19 lockdowns—is set to grow exponentially. The company expects substantial growth this fiscal year and is confident of doubling its current volumes by FY2022.

"We estimate that the electric two-wheeler market will be 10-20 per cent of the ICE market in the next five years. Even at the lower level of 10 per cent, the market will expand to 2 million units per annum. If it goes to 20 per cent, around 4 million units will be sold a year. So, irrespective of which way we look at it, we are looking at exponential growth happening in the coming years," Naveen Munjal, MD, Hero Electric told this publication. At present, share of EVs in total vehicle sales in India is less than one per cent.

Munjal said this segment gained traction once it switched to lithium-ion batteries from the older lead-ion ones. "What has happened now is that despite a price hike, there is traction... Everyday new ventures are coming up in different segments, from making batteries to procuring raw materials. Now, it has started making economic sense because there is scale... I believe the next two-three years is going be highly disruptive," he added.

Hero, which commands one-third of the electric two-wheeler market, has serious expansion plans amidst increasing competition. "We have to expand because we are running out of capacity. The quantum of that investment is going to be substantial. This year we will be making around 55,000-60,000 units. The immediate expansion will take our manufacturing capacity to 2.5-3 lakh units per annum and in the next phase it should reach to 5-6 lakh units," he said. Munjal, however, did not disclose the size of the investment.

Core sectors contract for ninth month in a row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE output of eight core infrastructure sectors dropped by 2.5% in November 2020, contracting for the ninth month in a row. In November 2019, the production of these eight sectors had recorded a growth of 0.7%.

The core sector had showed signs of recovery in September with only 0.1% contraction from 6.9% dip in the preceding month.

However, the momentum was short-lived as the core infra industries contracted at a faster pace in October at 0.9% and in November.

The numbers are significant as eight core industries account for 40.27% of the Index of Industrial Production (IIP) and the experts feel the core-sector data could drag down IIP numbers as well.

The IIP grew 3.6% in October, posting growth for the first time in October since February.

However, economists said the revival was aided by festival-season demand and a low base, which may not be sustainable. Aditi Nayar, principal economist at Icra, said, "We expect the IIP to revert to a temporary but unpalatable 2-5% contraction in November."

According to the data released by the commerce and industry ministry on Thursday, the drop in core sector output was mainly due to decline in production of natural gas, refinery products, steel and cement.

Barring coal, fertiliser and electricity, all sectors — crude oil, natural gas, refinery products, steel and cement — recorded negative growth in November 2020.

During April-November, the sectors' output dropped by 11.4% compared to a growth of 0.3% in the same period of the previous year.

Crypto ends 2020 on a high, but concerns remain

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

IN a year when global currency valuations have been in turmoil, the cryptocurrency industry has witnessed an unprecedented bull run. On the last day of 2020, Bitcoin surged past $29,000, quadrupling in value in a pandemic year.

Indian financial sector players have shown keenness in participating in the wave with industry experts pointing out that as institutional investment in the world's largest cryptocurrency—bitcoin—gets bigger, it could see stronger support during price dips.

"Both cryptocurrencies and gold are seen as a hedge to protect fiat portfolios due to inflation-beating qualities. While traditionally, investors used gold to hedge against stock volatility, now crypto is emerging as a mainstream investment class especially among millennials. In fact, the Bitcoin seems to be replicating the gold price rise," said Nischal Shetty, chief executive officer of WazirX, India's largest cryptocurrency exchange which has a huge millennial user base.

Cryptocurrency, as a medium of payment, needs neither a central issuing authority nor a central validating agency. They exist and thrive outside the realm of regulation and their price is determined by supply and demand, which is also why they are far more volatile than any sovereign currency.

2021 could well be another roller-coaster year like 2017 when the coin saw a similar rally, only to crash the next year, says Sathvik Anand, Co-Founder and CEO of Unocoin. There are also persisting concerns on their future.

For instance, they lack key qualities and basic attributes to be a proper currency. According to Pranay Sanghavi, co-founder of MahaDAO, these are: Money as a store of value because of high volatility; money as a unit of account; and money as a medium of exchange. There is also no sovereign guarantee, which is what makes normal currencies tick. However, their meteoric rise has caught the attention of the government. Recent reports suggest that the Central Economic Intelligence Bureau, an arm of the finance ministry is mulling the imposition of 18 per cent GST on cryptocurrency trading, in which case it could potentially gain ₹7,500 crore annually.

Exchange executives, however, say they pay GST on fees and commissions levied on crypto trading. It is also crucial to put in place a regulatory framework before taxation, they add. Indians own about 1 per cent of the world's bitcoin, far lower than the US.

The year of the postponed Tokyo 2020 Olympics

AP @Tokyo

THE year of the Tokyo 2020 Olympics is arriving. That would be 2021.

Ever since the Olympics were postponed nine months ago, local organisers and the IOC have been biding their time. They've said we'll have to wait until early in 2021 for details about how the Olympics can open on July 23 in the middle of a pandemic.

That time is here.

The International Olympic Committee and Tokyo organizers will have to start getting specific in the next few months. Though modest by global standards, the virus is surging in Japan with just over 3,000 deaths attributed to Covid-19. The variant strain has been detected in the country, and reports say vaccines will not be widely available until March; not to mention the availability of the vaccine in the other 205 nations or territories expected to be represented in Tokyo.

LEWIS HAMILTON

Even in a hurriedly reorganised Formulal calendar, the Brit racer showcased his class. As the season wore on, one of the main sub-plots — would he equal Michael Schumacher's world record of seven titles — became a matter of 'when' and not 'if'. If that alone wasn't enough to cement his greatness, in an interview to the guardian shortly after, he once again shined a light on racial inequality that exists in the sport. He said: "it doesn't mean anything unless you can help push for change. I cannot keep silent during this time."

LIVERPOOL

One of English football's most storied clubs finally sat on the throne after decades of spent looking at it from the outside. On June 26, 2020, they finally reclaimed the title that they had last won in 1989-90. Year after year of hurt and agony was replaced by joy and a sense of celebration and relief. The title should also be viewed from the context of what it could potentially do to a city that has faced economic distress. Football cannot alleviate people's sufferings but it can help heal people who look towards it for escapism.

WOMEN'S T20 WC

For so long, women's cricket has been treated with disdain. It was seen as a dead end, a product that was hanging on to the coat-tails of men's international cricket. That perception was shattered on the evening of March 8 as the women's World Cup between India and Australia became the most matched women's cricket event ever. Inside the MCG, more than 86174 were in attendance. Outside, millions tuned in.

THE IPL

With Covid-19 cases rising in India by the hour, and bad news stories on the front and back pages, the Indian public were hanging their hat on the staging of the sport's most lucrative franchise meet in UAE for distraction, something to take their minds of the coronavirus. And the IPL did that, what with the tournament becoming the most watched edition since its inaugural edition in 2008. People could finally switch off for a few hours everyday.

NAOMI OSAKA

The Japanese athlete took part in the Black Lives Matter protests following the death of George Floyd. And, at the US Open, wore seven different face masks aimed at highlighting the racial injustice that continues to this day. It captured the imagination in a year when athlete activism was front and centre: right from Marcus Rashford's campaign to feed school students in the UK to players across multiple sports taking the knee immediately before matches.

After upcoming trials, camp for Oly core group shooters

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

SOON after the upcoming selection trials 1 and 2, Olympic core group shooters will have a camp at the Dr Karni Singh Shooting Range in New Delhi from January 20 to February 7. "All shooters/coaches are required to attend the camp," read a letter (dated December 31) sent to shooters/coaches by National Rifle Association of India (NRAI), the governing body of shooting in India. "Shooters and coaches are required to confirm their joining of the camp before 1 pm on January 11, 2021," the letter added.

The accommodation will be arranged by the NRAI on a single occupancy basis at a hotel near the range. After reporting to the hotel on January 20, the shooters/coaches will be under quarantine until January 26. However, local shooters have the option of self-isolating at home and can report on January 26.

Like the previous camps, it will be mandatory for all the shooters/coaches to undergo Covid-19 tests and the same will be arranged by the NRAI and conducted at the hotel.

"All the shooters must follow Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) laid down by the Sports Authority of India," the letter noted. Masks will be mandatory at all times unless while in action at the range. No one will be allowed to stay outside the hotel during the camp.

Set for trials

But before the camp, the focus will shift on the national trials (rifle/pistol/shotgun) that are due to begin from January 5.

After a break, some of the top shooters are already in the national capital, trying to polish what they have learnt in the last few months or so with the trials in mind.

As competitions are rare as hen's teeth, the trials will be vital for shooters and the likes of Deepali Deshpande, rifle high performance coach, who'll be present during the event.

"They have to get back to a busy routine. You need to get back into that (competitive) mindset, try and get that alertness," Deshpande told this daily. "We had trials last in January, some of them shot during the Olympic selection trials in February. So it has been a long time. Everyone, irrespective of what they are going to gain from it, is looking forward to it."

The trials for shotgun shooters will commence on January 5 and continue till 16. The pistol/rifle trials will begin a day later and will go on until January 18.

The third and fourth trials, to determine teams for Delhi and Korea World Cups, is likely to be held in February. The World Cups in Delhi and Korea are scheduled in March and April respectively.

Hockey legend Kindo passes away at 73

PTI @ Rourkela

INDIA'S 1975 hockey World Cup-winning and 1972 Olympics bronze winning team member Michael Kindo died at a hospital here on Thursday due to age-related ailments. He was 73, and is survived by his wife, a son and two daughters.

"Michael Kindo passed away at the Ispat General Hospital due to age related problems. He was bed-ridden for quite some time and was also suffering from depression," said a family source. "His last rites will be completed tomorrow as his daughters are reaching only then." Kindo was bestowed with the Arjuna Award in 1972. Kindo, a full back in his playing days, was a member of the team that won the lone World Cup for India in 1975 in Kuala Lumpur, beating Pakistan in the final.

He was also in the team that won bronze in the 1972 Olympics. He scored three goals in that edition.

Liverpool miss chance to stretch lead

ASSOCIATED PRESS @London

GOALKEEPER Karl Darlow pulled off a string of saves to help Newcastle hold Liverpool to a 0-0 draw as the defending champion's vaunted attacking trio came up empty.

Mohamed Salah missed two good chances when he had just Darlow to beat, and strike-partner Roberto Firmino saw two headers saved at St. James' Park on Wednesday.

Three days after struggling West Bromwich Albion earned a point at Anfield, Jurgen Klopp's team was frustrated once again, although Darlow needed some help in the form of a late goal-line clearance from Fabian Schar to deny Sadio Mane and maintain the stalemate.

Liverpool has now won only two of eight league away games this season but still tops the table, three points ahead of Manchester United.

Liverpool could have taken the lead 11 minutes before the break when Salah beat the offside trap to control the ball in front of the advancing Darlow, who got his hand on the Egyptian's shot to steer it wide of the post. The goalkeeper then produced a fine reaction save in stoppage time to repel Firmino's header from point-blank range.

Salah had another chance to break the deadlock in the 67th when he was played in by Firmino but directed his effort past the upright.

Liverpool goalkeeper Alisson Becker then had to pull off a diving save of his own 11 minutes from time when Ciaran Clark met Matt Ritchie's free kick with a downward header.

Liverpool nearly scored moments later when Darlow pushed the ball away onto Mane's leg and Schar had to hack the ball off his line before the forward could tap into an empty net. Darlow then clawed away another Firmino header near the end to preserve his clean sheet. It was the only Premier League game played Wednesday after a match between Fulham and Tottenham was postponed.

China offered bounty for US blood in Afghan?

In an unusual move, Trump hurries to declassify the uncorroborated intelligence report raising questions

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump's administration is rushing to declassify an uncorroborated intelligence report that China offered bounties to non-state actors in Afghanistan to attack American troops, Axios reported on Thursday.

This piece of intelligence was included in Trump's national security briefing on December 17, sources said.

The US officials are presently working to corroborate the report, according to Axios.

If confirmed, it would be another sore point in US-China relations, which have nosedived under Trump.

An intelligence source said "The US has evidence that the PRC [People's Republic of China] attempted to finance attacks on American servicemen by Afghan non-state actors by offering financial incentives or 'bounties'"

Another source said the report is being looked at with caution. "Like all first reports, we react with caution to initial reports".

Meanwhile, some analysts have expressed doubts about the authenticity of the report.

Andrew Small, an expert on China-Afghanistan affairs told Axios that such actions "were not in line with China's typical policies."

"They know the drawdown is taking place. We're not in the context where anything else needs to happen to US troops in Afghanistan. There is no reason to create additional pressure on US forces," he said.

If the report turns out to be false, questions could be raised about its declassification.

It is not clear if it was brought to President-elect Joe Biden's attention. The US and UK troops have previosuly complained about the Taliban using Chinese weapons. In June, reports emerged that the Russian government had offered payment in Afghan fighters to kill American troops, sparking outrage.

Afghan troops abandon 200 checkpoints

Afghan security personnel have abandoned nearly 200 checkpoints in restive Kandahar province in recent weeks, officials said Wednesday, in some cases leaving behind their weapons to be seized by the Taliban. Kandahar provincial governor Hayatullah Hayat and a local lawmaker separately confirmed the situation, saying commanders would be disciplined for their actions. The defence ministry in Kabul denied the reports, insisting government forces had been making progress in the region.

30 arrested, Pak SC takes notice of temple attack

ISLAMABAD

OVER 30 people, mostly members of a radical Islamist party, were arrested after a Hindu temple was vandalised and set on fire by a mob protesting against its expansion work in northwest Pakistan, officials said on Thursday.

The attack on the temple in Terri village in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa's (KP) Karak district on Wednesday drew strong condemnation from human rights activists and Hindu community leaders.

On Thursday, the provincial government ordered authorities to reconstruct the damaged temple as it vowed to bring the culprits to justice.

The temple was attacked by the mob after members of the Hindu community received permission from local authorities to renovate its decades-old building, according to witnesses.

The mob, led by a local cleric and supporters of Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam party (Fazal ur Rehman group), demolished the newly constructed work alongside the old structure, they said.

According to local police, they arrested more than 30 people, including Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam leader Rehmat Salam Khattak, in overnight raids. Over 350 people have been named in the FIR, Provincial Police Chief KPK Sanaullah Abbasi has said.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court on Thursday took notice of the attack and ordered the local authorities to appear before the court on January 5. According to a statement by the apex court, Hindu lawmaker and the Pakistan Hindu Council chief Ramesh Kumar Vankwani called on Chief Justice Gulzar Ahmed in Karachi to discuss the issue.

"The chief justice of Pakistan showed grave concern over the tragic incident and informed the member of parliament that he has already taken cognisance of the issue and has fixed the matter before court on January 5, at Islamabad," according to the statement. The court has summoned a report from Khyber Pakhtunkhwa's Inspector General of Police, Geo TV reported. Agencies

CORONAVIRUS

US records close to 4K deaths in 24 hours

WASHINGTON

MORE than 3,900 people died of Covid-19 in the US Wednesday, according to a count released by Johns Hopkins University, a new daily record for fatalities from the virus.

That brought the US total to 19,715,899 infections and 341,845 deaths since the pandemic began.

The country's leading infectious diseases expert, Anthony Fauci, warned Sunday that the worst of the pandemic was likely yet to come, with the death toll rising at an alarming rate in the winter months and after major holiday gatherings.

The country has begun a mass campaign of vaccinations and 2.8 million people have already received jabs, but that is well behind the 20 million inoculations the administration of President Donald Trump has promised by the end of the year.

California became the second US state to detect the variant — after Colorado — with a 30-year-old San Diego man testing positive.

Experts believe the new variant in nearby Britain could be more contagious, contributing to record daily caseloads in England and sparking fear as it quickly proliferates.

Top US government scientist Anthony Fauci said he was "not surprised" by the variant's spread and warned the nation "likely will be seeing reports from other states."

Even as vaccinations ramp up in Europe and North America, global infections have surged to more than 82 million.

Ireland announced the tightening of coronavirus restrictions for at least a month including the closing of non-essential retail and gyms. "We will do what we need to do to suppress the virus," Prime Minister Micheal Martin said in a televised address. AFP

Single dose of vaccine may not protect from Covid, warns Pfizer

NEW YORK

PFIZER said on Thursday that there are no data to suggest that a single dose of its vaccine will provide protection from Covid-19 infection after 21 days.

The US pharma giant said that though some protective effects begin 12 days after the first dose, full protection can be achieved only after two doses spaced over three weeks.

The announcement comes as some countries are rushing to give the first dose of the vaccine to as many people as possible.

China confirms first case of UK variant

China has confirmed its first case of a new coronavirus variant that was recently detected in Britain, health officials said. The first patient in China with the new variant is a 23-year-old woman from Shanghai who arrived from Britain

For instance, the UK vaccine strategy announced on Wednesday aims to "give as many people in at-risk groups their first dose, rather than providing the required two doses in as short a time as possible." Parts of Canada are also following a similar playbook.

The first dose of the vaccine is about 50% effective, experts say. A nurse in California recently tested positive days after receiving the Pfizer jab.

"We know from the vaccine clinical trials that it's going to take about 10 to 14 days for you to start to develop protection," an infectious disease expert told ABC News.

World welcomes 2021 with muted joy

CANBERRA

THIS New Year's Eve is being celebrated like no other, with pandemic restrictions limiting crowds and many people bidding farewell to a year they'd prefer to forget.

Australia was among the first nations to ring in 2021 because of its proximity to the International Date Line. It was a grim end to the year for New South Wales and Victoria, the country's two most populous states, which are battling new Covid-19 outbreaks.

In past years 1 million people crowded Sydney's harbor to watch fireworks that center on the Sydney Harbor Bridge, but most watched on television as authorities urged residents to stay home.

Locations on the harbor were fenced off, popular parks closed and famous night spots eerily deserted. A heavy police presence populated the otherwise quiet site, which resembled a ghost town.

A 9 pm fireworks display was scrapped but a seven-minute pyrotechnics show at midnight brought momentary cheer as fireworks spectacularly lit up the iconic Harbor Bridge and its surroundings.

New Zealand, which is two hours ahead of Sydney, and several of its South Pacific island neighbors have no current cases of coronavirus, and New Year celebrations there were the same as ever.

Much of Japan was welcoming 2021 quietly at home, alarmed after Tokyo reported a record number of daily coronavirus cases at about 1,300.

Hong Kong social distancing regulations restrict gatherings to only two people.

Restaurants are required to close by 6 pm and live performances and dancing are not allowed.

In South Korea, Seoul's city government canceled its annual New Year's Eve bell-ringing ceremony in the Jongno neighborhood for the first time since the event was first held in 1953, months after the end of the Korean War. AP

Covid measures for cabin crew tightened

Crew members of Singapore carriers will have to undergo stricter Covid-19 control measures with immediate effect following coronavirus cases involving a steward and a pilot. The Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS) said on Wednesday that it was tightening measures to ensure the safety and well-being of the crew and to safeguard public health in Singapore. Flight crew, who layover in "high-risk destinations", will be required to undergo polymerase chain reaction (PCR) tests on three occasions — upon arrival in Singapore, and on the third and seventh day following their return, reported the Channel News Asia, citing a CAAS statement. The move follows the recent COVID-19 cases involving a Singapore Airlines (SIA) steward and a pilot.

THAILAND

Two million vaccine doses by February

Thailand will receive the first 2 million doses of a coronavirus vaccine in February, as the country grapples with a surge in cases. Health Minister Anutin Charnvirakul made the announcement Thursday but did not identify the manufacturer. Thailand has signed a deal with Oxford-AstraZeneca to locally produce 180 million-200 million doses for Southeast Asia. Out of that, it has reserved 26 million for its population. Media reports quoted officials as saying the first locally produced shots aren't expected before May. Anutin said that Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha had assigned him to negotiate with every company that has started selling vaccines. On Thursday, Thailand reported 194 new cases, including 181 local transmissions.

GIBRALTAR TO JOIN SCHENGEN AREA

Spain has reached a deal on Thursday with Britain to preserve freedom of movement across its border with Gibraltar just hours before the Brexit deadline expired

THE BIG COMPROMISE

The key to the deal is that The Rock, whose sovereignty is disputed by Spain and Britain, will remain subject to rules in use in Europe's Schengen area

DID YOU KNOW?

Gibraltar was captured by Britain in 1704. The territory was later in 1713 ceded by Spain to Britain. But Madrid maintains its claim to sovereignty over it. That dispute has occasionally flared

96% of voters in Gibraltar supported remaining in the EU. They faced the possibility of entering the New Year with tight new controls on what for decades has been an open border with the bloc through Spain people live in Spain and work in Gibraltar, making up about 50% of its labor market. With a land area of just 6.8-square kilometres (2.6-square miles), Gibraltar is entirely dependent on imports to supply its 34,000 residents, and without an accord, the movement of goods across the border from Spain would have been slowed by new customs procedures

Assange backers hope for Trump pardon

LONDON

WITH a UK judge set to rule Monday on the US request to extradite Wikileaks founder Julian Assange, there have been speculations that President Donald Trump may pardon Assange if he is brought to the US.

With Trump on a pardon spree, supporters of WikiLeaks hope, Assange may find favour with the US president, whose 2016 campaign benefitted from WikiLeaks' release of Clinton emails.

Assange's fiancée, Stella Moris, has been making pleas to Trump via Twitter. "I beg you, please bring him home for Christmas," she had tweeted.

Julian Assange

However, analysts said a pardon is not likely as there is stiff opposition within the administration to Assange, whom Secretary of State Mike Pompeo called a "traitor"

Assange, 49, is being held in the high-security Belmarsh jail in London awaiting a January 4 decision by a British judge on a United States extradition request, in a case seen by his supporters as a cause celebre for media freedom.

The Australian publisher faces 18 charges in the US relating to the 2010 release by WikiLeaks of 500,000 secret files detailing aspects of military campaigns in Afghanistan and Iraq, including potential war crimes. First arrested on December 7, 2010, Assange could be jailed for up to 175 years if convicted.
